FIGHTING MYRICK

The Secretary of the Interior After Bascom's Scalp.

THE EDITOR NOT YET APPOINTED

The Delay Causes Surprise and Brings Out the Whole Story.

A STIR IN THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

Daused by Some Lively Letters from Gentleman in Atlanta-News of the Day in Washington.

Washington, April 4.—(Special.)—Much surprise was expressed among the Seorgians today when the consular nomina ions went to the senate without the name of Mr. Bascom Myrick on the list. Mr. Myrick has been endorsed by Speaker Crisp. He made a special request for the appointnent of Mr. Myrick as consul to Berlin. All the other members of the Georgia delgation endorsed him and both the president and secretary of state have told several Georgia callers that he would be appointed.

But since Speaker Crisp left Washington vigorous fight has been started against Mr. Myrick. It will hardly prove of sufficient consequence to prevent the appointent, but it has caused delay.

The opposition to Mr. Myrick's nomination the opposition to Mr. Myrick's nonmactor is by Secretary Hoke Smith and other Georgians, many of whom desire consular appointments and who are protesting against Mr. Myrick's appointment because they fear his success will inure to their defeat. Mr. Smith has received several letters of protest from Georgians on the grounds that Mr. Myrick was not a Cleveland man and that he fought Mr. Cleve-land's nomination bitterly. Mr. Smith has presented all these letters to the president and has at the same time added a personal statement against Mr. Myrick's appointment. He has told Mr. Cleveland that Myrick fought him with bitterness equal to malignity and has suggested that a man who was so bitter in his opposition should not have such an appointment when there are so many other democrats in Georgia applying or consulships.

Mr. Smith does not conceal the fact that fighting the appointment Myrick, though he has not gone so far as to ask as a personal favor to himself that Mr. Myrick shall not be appointed. He declares that in view of the fight Mr. Myrick made against Mr. Cleveland before the nomination. land before the nomination he is entitled to land before the nomination he is charted to nothing. Mr. Smith only desists from mak-ing a personal request of the president not to appoint Mr. Myrick because Speaker Crisp has urged it strongly and because Mr. Myrick has the endorsement of all the Georgia

Personally Secretary Smith is anything but kindly disposed towards the Americus editor. Indeed, the secretary of the interior was never a pet of The Americus Times. There has been war, bitter war, between the papers owned by the two men and if possible without putting it on the grounds of a personal request of the presint to prevent Mr. Myrick's appointment

Mr. Smith will do so. While Mr. Cleveland is somewhat emrrassed in the matter and while he is ot nearly so kindly disposed towards those ite certain that he will send Mr. Myrick's nation to the senate this week. aker Crisp presented Mr. Myrick's name defined his position before and after nomination. the contest over the marshalship of northern district of Georgia has been ctically settled. Senator Gordon and retary Smith have gotten together and the peace has been arranged which will ombly be satisfactory all along the line.

Colonel Fred Dismuke will be the mar-shal, while Colonel Renfroe and Mr. Barry will be provided for in other directions. Just what offices they will get has not been positively agreed upon. Mr. Barry may come here while Colonel Renfroe will probably be given a special agent's position under the interior department, which will him in the west much of the time.

Anton Kontz Sees the President. Mr. A. L. Kontz, of Atlanta, who is making a gallant contest for postmaster at Atlanta, is here. He has bad an interview with the president and is apparently contented with his chances. Some very strong pressure from the business men of Atlanta has been brought to bear upon the president in Mr. Hontz's favor, and Mr. Cleveland is at present inclined towards him. But the appointment depends upon the senators. If they agree upon a man he will get it. If each recommends a dif-ferent man Mr. Cleveland will choose the one he thinks best fitted, and who will be most satisfactory to the people of Atlanta.

Mr. Dobba's Good Luck.

Mr. James M. Dobbs, of Marietta, gets the second foreign plum chuncked to Georgia. He has been nominated as consul to Valparaiso, Chile.

Mr. Dobbs was endorsed by nearly all the Georgia delegation, but his appointment was in a large measure due to the fact that he impressed Secretary Gresham with his fitness for the position. Mr. Dobbs has spent several years in South America and ome time in Valparaiso, being engaged in establishing trade relations with South American countries. He speaks Spanish fluently and understands the people and the business of Chile. He so impressed Mr. Gresham with this fact that his appointment was made without hesitation or de-orchard will probably be to Bascom Myrick and John Temple Graves. The president has stated that Mr. Graves is to get a good foreign appointment. Mr. Graves is Mr. Cleveland's personal friend. Just where he will go is, however, not known. It may be a mission of the second or third class or a good consulship.

By the way, it is probable that Colonel Thomas R. Gibson, of The Augusta Evening News, is going to be tendered a good consulship in Great Britain. Mr. Cleveland knows of Mr. Gibson's able political work and is inclined to reward him. The Georgians are unanimously and enthusias-tically for him. Mr. Harvey Johnson, of Atlanta, and Colonel B. H. Richardson, of Columbus, are putting in some good work and both stand good chances of proving winners. Mr. Lindsey Johnson, of Rome, is also headed in the right direction for a French consulate.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Cleveland's Reception. Washington, April 4 .- President Cleve land was in a good humor to receive callers this morning and, although it was cabinet day, there was quite a number of them. Representative Enloe, of Tennessee, called to introduce Mr. D. P. Cooper, the proprietor of The Nashville American, who wanted an opportunity to discuss state matters with the president. Mr. Cleveland asked Mr. Cooper to come back at 6 o'clock tonight and he would talk with Governor Isaac Pusey Gray, the new minister to Mexico, who has been sick, was so far recovered as to get up to the white house this morning for the purpose of saying goodby. He will leave for Indianapolis probably tomorrow.

Mrs. Cleveland saw several hundred call ers today between 12 and 1 o'clock. All of them came by appointment. times as many more came without an invitation and were much disappointed in not being allowed to go to the blur room. Most of the callers were strangers. It is said that this is the last reception Mrs. Cleveland will hold this spring.

Their Country Home.

By the end of the present month it is expected that the Middleton place, on the Woodly Lane road, will be ready for the Woodly Lane road, will be ready for the occupancy of President and Mrs. Cleveland, who have leased it for a term of years. The house is a large old-fashioned structure, roomy, comfortable and occupying an ideal location. It is nearer the city than Oakview, which was the home of the president during his former administration. Situated on the south side of the Woodly road, and to the east of the fine country home of Mr. Gardiner Hubbard, the house stands on an elevated knoll surrounded with fine old oak trees. It is some distance from the road and commands an extended view, not only of the rolling country to the north, perhaps the most striking picturesque section of the famous Rock creek region, but from the windows there is one of the most charming and extensive views of the city to be found in this vicinity. The house is larger than the one at Oakview and has thirty acres of land about it. Reciprocity with South America.

It is said that the president is opposed to the continuance of the discrimination against the three countries named, and will revoke the proclamation imposing them issued by ex-President Harrison. Action in this matter may be deferred, however, for several weeks. for several weeks.

As far as can be ascertained the Russian extradition treaty was not discussed in the executive session of the senate today, and the situation remains unchanged.

There is good reason to believe that the senate will soon come to an agreement upon the question of organization and as soon as that is done, the matter of final adjournment of this extraordinary session will be speedly disposed of. During the

Was Tendered Him.

At What They Consider a Deal Made Against Him,

PROMISED ASSISTANT ATTORNEYSHIP.

He Was Offered a Law Clerkship in the Interior Department Instead—He Wants None of It.

Grantville, Ga., April 4.—(Special.) Hewitt Hall has declined the position tendered him in Washington, and the stories that reach here indicate that his friends are deeply incensed at the treatment he has received.

The recent contest for the attorneyship of the northern district excited a good deal of interest throughout this county from the fact that Colonel Joe James had promised, in the event of his success in securing the coveted plum, that he would appoint Colonel H. A. Hall his assistant. Mr. Hall is a brilliant and successful young lawyer of Newnan and enjoys a fine practice. He is extremely popular in the community where he lives and when it was ancounced that Mr. James had been appointed district attorney there was general rejoicing among Mr. Hall's friends, because it was generally understood that Mr. James's appointment would carry with it the appoint ment of Mr. Hall as assistant.

Indeed there was no other expectation until the following afternoon, when a telegram was received from Mr. James dated at Washington in which he stated that the president insisted upon making a tender of the office of assistant attorney to Mr. Rucker, but that Secretary Smith had authorized him, James, to offer Mr. Hall a $2,000 position in the interior department. Accepting the telegram in good faith and assuming that the appointment of an assistant had been really taken out of Mr. James's hands by the president, Mr. Hall made no protest and accepted the result with his usual equanimity. Not having been advised as to the nature of the position that had been reserved for him in the interior department, and desiring to gain time for further consideration of this new proposal, Mr. Hall telegraphed his acceptance and asked for particulars.

When, however, he learned subsequently that the position offered was of no more dignity than that of law clerk in the de-partment of the interior, he wrote Secretary Smith and promptly declined it.

Mr. Hall was not a very zealous candidate for the office of assistant attorney at any time, and is perhaps less perturbed over the unexpected denouement than any one. His friends, however, are highly fu-dignant over the matter and are firmly persuaded that there was a deal. The fact Secretary Smith is relat-by marriage to Mr. Rucker, and was a warm supporter of that gentleman for first place, coupled with the further fact that Secretary Smith authorized Mr. James to mollify Mr. Hall with partment would seem to give color to the suspicion. Mr. James gave his solemn pledge that if favored with appointment to the first place he would appoint Mr. Hall as his assistant. This pledge was made a week or ten days before he was appointed. He stated, moreover, that he did not want and would not have Mr. Rucker as his assistant, and his statement now that the president, in effect, forced Rucker upon him, is received with a good deal of allowance by Mr. Hall's friends in this portion of the

It is said that some of Mr. Hall's strong-It is said that some of Mr. Hall's strong-est friends and supporters, among them Speaker Atkinson and Congressman Moses, were in conference today, and that some pretty strong letters have gone or will go to Atlanta and Washington There are a good many facts behind those attorneyship ap-pointments the public would like to know, and they will furnish mighty interesting reading.

And Beminded President Cleveland of Pledge Made Last December.

New York, April 4.—President Cleveland has, it is stated, offered Joseph J. O'Donohue the position of subtreasurer of the United States to succeed Alex H. Roberts, in this city. O'Donohue has declined it. Some very interesting correspondence is said to have passed between the president and the coffee merchant. Mr. O'Donohue is said to have taken offense at the offer and the way in which it was made, and according to report has written a letter to Mr. Cleveland reminding him in very plain words of an alleged pledge made last December regarding the collectorship of this port. the collectorship of this port.

He was born October 30, 1800, in Virginia, and came to Kentucky when a boy. He was thirteen times elected a member of the Kentucky legislature and was once speaker of the house. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1849-50. In June, 1852, he was elected United States senator to succeed Henry Clay and served until December. From 1853 to 1857 he was territorial governor of New Mexico. He closed his political career in Kentucky in 1885, when he was defeated for the legislature. He leaves a large family. Hon. St. Louis, Mo., April 4.—A special for an evening paper from Gallatin, Tex., says the news of a most diabolical crime at Alexander has reached here and aroused the community to a frenzy of excitement George and John Evans went into the house of Jerry Shelton, who lives in a secluded place, and at the point of a pistol forced him to leave home. They then assaulted the seventeen-year-old wife. Shelton gave the alarm and when a crowd of citi zens had collected and returned with Shelton to the scene of the crime, the scoundrel had fled and the news spread rapidly from house to house and the entire was soon on the hunt. It is hardly pos sible that the men will be taken alive, as they are desperate and are heavily armed for a stubborn resistance. Leads to Suspicious That Her Husband May Have Killed Her. Gadsden, Ala., April 4 .- (Special.)-

Robert Johnson, a well-to-do farmer, living near Turkeytown, Etowah county, is in jail charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Johnson had been in a critical condition for some time, but on last Wednesday she died very suddenly, and the physician pronounced her death due to poison supposed to be eye-water which she had been using for sore eyes.

After her burial, foul play was suspected by her neighbors, and today Coroner Lowry had her body exhumed and held an inquest A careful examination showed bruises on her neck which was badly swollen and there were signs of poison.

The jury rendered a verdict declaring that the deceased came to her death from the the deceased came to her death from the effect of bruises or poison; and they ordered Robert Johnson held for murder.

He is now_in jail. There are rumors that Mrs. Johnson killed herself, as she was heard to remark that she was tired of life and would kill herself the first opportunity, but the evidence is very strong against her husband, as the murderer of his wife.

A Strange Woman Takes Her Away from

Minneapolis, Ind. April 4.—A special to The Tribune from Oskaloosa, Ia., says: A little girl by the name of Werner, was kidnaped from a room in the second ward school building yesterday morning. Soon after school commenced in the morning a woman called and asked to see the child. The teacher sent the child to the cloak room where the woman was waiting, and in a few moments she returned asking to be excused. Nothing has been seen of the child since. She was the legally adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Werner, of this city, and had made her home with them for seven years. All trace of the child's mother was lost,

He fired two shots before Cavanaugh could draw his pistol. After this both fired until their pistols were emptied. One shot from Cavanaugh's pistol pierced Cobb's left breast just above the heart and he died in a few just above the heart and he died in a lew minutes. LITTLE HOPE FOR SAVING THEM. The Three Men Still Shut Up in the Hazelton

Hazleton, Pa., April 4.—Richard Williams, William Trembath and Thomas Hudson, victims of yesterday's Laurel Hill mine accident, are still entombed. There is no hope of recovering Williams alive, as it is believed that he was crushed to death. The fact that the torrent of water crushed the immense pillar of coal that divides the breast is causing apprehension for the safety of Trembath and Hudson. The pillar giving way cut off the air passages and unless air from ground openings is now travel-ling in this point, they will die from the effects of black damp. The work of rescue is proceeding slowly, owing to the black damp. The rescuers cannot remain in the place for more than a few minutes at a time,

CARTER HARRISON

OVER ALL THE COMBINED OPPOSITION

Carter Rides Through the Streets Wildly Cheered.

THE GERMAN VOTE A GREAT SURPRISE.

Elections in Other States-St. Louis Republican - Women Take a Hand in the Kansas Election.

Chicago, April 4.—Never in the history of Chicago has such intense and universal interest been shown in any municipal election as in that which came off today. The campaign on both sides has been conducted with great bitterness, neither side being able to find much of anything too hard to say. It was an open contest of the republicans and citizens against Harrison-more against him as an individual than as the representative of a political faction.

The day was a republican day. The weather couldn't have been more favorable to the republicans if it had been made on an order from the party headquarters. It was bright, suffny and warm, with a gentle breeze blowing off the lake to lend an edge to the air. It was just the day to bring out the men who never vote, if by any chance they might get a wet foot in going to the polls. It gave the citizens every opportunity to win if they could.

Long before the polls opened at 6 o'clock in the morning there were long lines of men waiting for the opening of the polls. As a rule, there was but little scratching done, save in the cases of aldermanic candiates, and not much of it there. The lines in front of the polling booths grew longer and longer as the men who eat breakfast between 7 who eat breakfast between 7 o'clock and 8:30 o'clock poured forth to cast their votes. It seemed as though every man was determined to cast his vote before noon, and the majority of them did so. By 11 o'clock 60 per cent of the registered voters of Chicago had cast their ballots and 70 per cent by noon. The general feeling during the day seemed in favor of Harrison's chances and what betting was done was done in his

The Australian ballot, against which Harrison's popularity had never before been measured, was inclined to make the loudest of his supporters a trifle cautious, and not a large amount of betting was done at any figures. The chances, too, that the old-time democratic majorities in the stock yards, where Allerton is very popular, would be largely cut, made another figure in the betting and went a long way to keeping down the amount of money wagered. Both sides were ready to claim everything from Lake Calumet, on the south, to the north city line, and from Lake Michigan, on the east, to the edge of the municipality, and talk was talk, money was money, and no extensive combinations were formed. The Germans Surprised Them.

The German population, which confidently expected to go almost solidly against Harrison, proved a disappointment to both parties. It seems to have split between the two candidates and not to have proven the decisive factor, which it was went so heavily for Cleveland and Altgeld as to virtually settle the electoral vote of the state. Early in the day Harrison was on horseback looking after his interest in the dif-ferent wards. He is a splendid horseman and made an imposing figure as he rode from polling place to polling place, urging on his followers. Allerton remained quietly in the republican headquarters eceiving word as to the progress of the contest throughout the city. The Newspaper Bulletins.

By 5 o'clock the crowds began to congregate in front of the newspaper offices to await returns. At the corner of Fifth avenue and Washington street The Times building, where Harrison's paper is published, was a great sheet of canvas upon which the returns were thrown by a storeopticon, and a block to the south a similar canvas bore the returns of The Record, and half a block to the east The Herald gave out its news. The two latter payers have been strongly anti-Harrison during the campaign, and the crowds which packed the streets in front of their buildings partook strongly of their sentiments.

The edges of these crowds brushed against the throng that had voted for by night. The compact was not conductive to friendly feeling and the numerous detachments of police had all they cared to do in keeping the peace. As it was, there was many a rich black eye and swoolien bloody lip before 10 o'clock at night.

The first returns were strongly in favor of Harrison and his followers simply went wild. They yelled, howled and waved their hats, derided the police and disparaged the ancestry of the Allerton men, who were not slow in making retorts equally pointed and uncimplimentary. The fin horn fiend escaped from confinement which had held him since November. The street cars in front of the newspapers had a desperate time in forcing their way along, and in many instances were compelled to stop completely until the police could throw a few politicians from the track and enable tion as that of last November, but it meant as much or more to Chicago, and all Chicago was out at night to see how the had voted through the day.

Late tonight Mr. Harrison said of the

"It has been a great victory and I am gratified at the outcome. Nearly all of the great morning papers of this city have striven to defeat me by using their combined influence and they have failed. As mayor, I will falsify the predictions of my enemies. I will show them that in my administration of civic affairs I can be guided by the best interests of the public and that other considerations will have no influence with me. My first and best efforts will be for the general good of the city. Then I shall consider the interests of the democratic parts." I believe, there

WOMEN AT THE POLLS.

They Prove Themselves to Be Better Cam paigners Than the Men.

Kansas City, Kas., April 4.—Prohibitive and disheveled Kansas, whose elections always prove interesting on account of the number of diversified interests displayed on such a day, lacked nothing today making it a drawing card. In fact, she took from all past elections the honor for

The adoption of a resolution at the last ession of the legislature to submit the granting of full suffrage to women gave a new impetus to the movement, and the women, who already enjoyed municipal suffrage, today made an effort to bring about vote in the hope of making a good start in the campaign that will last until the fall elections. On the showing then of the females depended today for them the all-important question of whether or not they would be allowed the full power at the polls that is given their fathers, sons, etc. In most cases they showed them-selves worthy of that trust by their ability to perform all the duties necessary to carry a candidate through, and they caused the sterner sex to feet their power and where lacking in election finesse, the male voters were given pointers by their new co-laborers. Several women candidates were up for office. In this city Mrs. Anna Potter, the wife of a prominent business man, was running for mayor and on the same ticket were Mrs. Sarah Reinhart, who aspired to be a member of the city council, and Mrs. Josephine Green, who desired to be a member of the board of education. The women hired bands, rode around to the different polling precincts and engaged in proselyting with indefatigable zeal and acumen.

The female voters amongst the colored people were just as enthusiastic apparently their white "fellow citizens," and could be seen in interesting groups at all of the polls. The effect of women being at the polls was that the election was the quietest and most orderly ever held in the state Today's election will give an indication of which party the people hold responsible for the late proceedings which did not add honor to the last legislature. For the first time in the history of city elections the state party lines were strictly drawn. In almost every city the repub licans ran straight tickets, and this where they had heretofore not even made an at-tempt to win at a city election. The result gives some indication of which party will hold political supremacy in the state in time to come, and by some is considered the turning point in Kansas politics.

The weather for universally favorable and all parties made an extra effort to carry the day. The vote polled was the heaviest for some years and in the larger cities very nearly 30 per cent of the ballots cast were by women.

The opinion of Attorney General Little, holding that the hiring of conveyances to bring voters to the polls is illegal, was generally respected, though in Kansas City it counted very little, for conveyances were quite as freely used as heretofore. Returns from many of the cities will be imperfect tonight, if received at all, and it is doubtful whether the result in Kansas City will be known before two days.

At Hiawatha, W. S. Smalley, republican, was elected mayor. The issues involved were purely local.
At Lyons the republicans carried the en-republican and the day passed very quietly At Clay Center, the republican strong-hold, J. C. Johnson was re-elected mayor and the republicans secure the balance of the ticket.

At Eureka the prohibition republican candidate, W. S. Mayer, was elected mayor, and the balance of the republican ticket was elected by small majorities.

At Fort Scott the citizens' candidate for layor was elected.

In Kansas City Mrs. Potter received but yotes and her ticket, the independent,

In Kansas City Mrs. Potter received but few votes and her ticket, the independent, is probably defeated entirely.

At Wichita the republicans made a straight fight against the democrats, populists and some dissatisfied republicans combined and won a decided victory. At 11:30 o'clock p. m. the indications are that L. M. Cox, the republican candidate for mayor, is elected by 1,200 majority. The remainder of the republican ticket, with the exception of one member of the school board, is in. About two thousand women voted. women voted city today resulted in a victory for the republicans. They secure mayor, collector, council and most of the minor offices, if not all. Cyrus P. Walbridge secures the mayoralty plum from James Bannerman by a majority of about 3,000. Henry Ziegenheim, for collector, and Charles Nagel for president of the council, republicans, defeat their democratic opponents by still larger majorities. The republicans, it is thought, secure every one of the six councilmen and a majority of the house delegates. Dispatches received by The Republic on today's election show that Jefferson City went republican except for marshal by a mall majority. Mexico went all democratic; Lamar the same except marshal and Cape Girardeau electing the entire people's party ticket. Butler—Democrats elected their entire ticket. Norborne—Democrats made a clean sweep. Harrison—The citizens' ticket carried the day and at the El Dorado Springs, Versailles and neighboring towns the democrats made a clean sweep.

Detroit, Mich, April 4.—With the exception of Detroit most of the cities in Michigan voted for city officials yesterday. The republicans elected their candidates for mayor in the following places, in some cases

In Owosso, Monroe, Cheoygan, Mt. Clemens, Jackson Ludington, Greenville, Ypsilanti, and Pontiac democratic mayors were elected. Marquette elected a non-partisan ticket.

In Saginaw the republicans and non-partisans elected both circuit judges and the republicans elected nine of fifteen aldermen, giving nineteen out of thirty republican members of council.

All Democrats at Little Rock.

Little Rock, April 4.—The election in this city passed off quietly and a very light vote was polled. M. G. Hall, democratic nominee for mayor, was elected, also all of the sixteen democratic aldermen. Reports from Hot Springs, Pine Bluff, Texarkana and Helena indicate that the democrats have carried all those cities.

Democrats All Right in Milwaukee Milwaukee, Wis., April 4.—The election passed off very quietly, about 25,000 votes being cast out of a total registration of 49,000. At 11 o'clock p. m. the returns indicate the election of Mayor Pete J. Somers, democrat, over Theobald Ojen, republican, to fill the vacancy in the house of representatives, caused by the election of Joe'L. Mitchell to the senate, by a plurality of 1,500. Judge. H. D. Johnson, of the circuit court, is re-elected without opposition. Judge Ludwig, democrat, defeats Julius Roehr, republican, by 2,500, and Judge J. E. Mann, of the probate court, democrat, is re-elected ever Frank J. Lewihech, republican, by 2,500.

Republicans Carried Toledo.

Republicans Carried Toledo. Republicans Carried Toledo.

Toledo, O., April 4.—After one of the bitterest campaigns that has been fought in this city for a great many years the republicans have succeeded in electing every man on their ticket with one exception, and have captured both branches of the council board. Major, republican, was elected mayor by the narrow majority of 135, and Stone, democrat, police judge by about 300 majority. The fight was not one of republican against democrat, but of creed against creed, the republican convention having been controlled by the anti-Catholic society known as the A. P. A., which has secured a hold on the cities in this vicinity.

Elections in Texas.

Elections in Texas. Houston, Tex., April 4.—Municipal elections were held throughout the state today. Dallas was the only large city to elect officers and there was a bitter and close contest for the mayoralty. In every instance the officers elected are democrats, but few towns having two tickets in the field. An affray occurred at Simpson in which Dr. E. P. Clements and T. A. Paxton were the principals. Attempting to quell the difficulty the city marshal was shot and perhaps fatally wounded.

Helena, Mont., April 4.—The city election today resulted in the electing of a democratic mayor, the treasurer and police judge. The republicans only secured four councilmen. The democrats have four majority in the council.

Long Island City, L. I., April 4.—The result of elections for supervisors in Queens and Suffolk counties are estimated tonight as follows: Democrats, 7; republicans, 9. Prohibition was defeated everywhere.

Denver Elects Entire Republican Ticket. Denver, Col., April 4.—Probably the most hotly contested municipal election campaign ever experienced in Denver ended today and the result is the election of Van Horn, republican, for mayor and the entire republican ticket by at least 1,000 plurality. The vote was very light in comparison to last fall.

Dubuque, Iowa, April 4.—The election yesterday proved a surprise for the democrats, they electing only Attorney James E. Knight. The independents elected Dougherty mayor, Cooney recorder, Griffike treasurer and three out of the five aldermen.

At Keokuk.

At Keokuk the republicans elected Dr. S. W. Morehead mayor, A. J. Hardin marshal and B. H. Hoagland assessor and six out of eight aldermen. The city has been democratic for the past four years,

BRUNSWICK'S BIG SALE.

The Oglethorpe Hotel, Street Railway and St. Simons Car Line.

Brunswick, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Much interest was manifested in the sale of Much interest was manifested in the sale of the Oglethorpe hotel and the street car line and St. Simon's car line and boats, which took place under foreclosure proceedings today. Representatives of the bondholders of these different properties were present, but from the fact that the properties were sold a little above the liens and expenses ahead of the mortgage bonds, it is inferred that the purchase was really made by the bondholders and color is lent to this by the s and color is lent to this by the bondholders and color is lent to this by the fact that frequent meetings between the representatives of the bondholders and the attorneys have taken place and the unanimity of the sale and the practical lack of bidding confirms the belief.

The Oglethorpe sold for $25,-000, upon which there is $70,-000 of first mortgage bonds. The street car lines and boats which cost in the neighborhood of $150,000 sold at $10,000, which was the amount of cash required to be deposited to pay the liens by in the neighborhood of $150,000 sold at $10,000, which was the amount of cash required to be deposited to pay the liens by the decree. Judge Crovatt, of the firm of Crovatt & Whitfield, attorneys for the bondholders bid in these properties and from the satisfied air of the different attorneys and parties attending the sale it was evident that a satisfactory understanding all around had been reached.

It is believed that local parties have combined with the bondholders to reorganize these properties and Colonel W. R. Kay, a prominent attorney of this place, who is arranging a plan for reorganization for the security holders of the St. Simon's hotel properties, was present and was evidently well satisfied at the turn of affairs. He states that the plan of reorganization will-be commenced within a few days and will include the car lines on St. Simon's and friendly co-operation with the St. Simon's line of steamboats, both of which were included in the sale today and an opportunity will be given the people of Georgia to become interested in these valuable properties and share in the pleasure and profits of that splendid resort. The reorganization of these properties sold today will have a most beneficial effect upon Brunswick, and their ownership by people living in and interested here will probably result in the changing of the surface car lines from mule to electric power and it is not unlikely that the splendid Oglethorpe notel will be at pt open permanently.

sitting of one of the committees this morning the matter was taken up and discussed for some time and a spirit of mutual concession appeared to prevail. It is understood that the republican suggestion that the democrats go ahead and organize with the understanding that new officials are not to take hold until later, is meeting with favor among these democrats who see in favor among those democrats who see in an opposition to this course the indications an opposition to this course the indications of a prolonged struggle. There is a strong probability that an agreement will soon be reached, as many senators are now going out of town and it will be impossible to keep a quorum here much longer. As soon as a plan of organization is agreed upon, and the president has signified that he has no further communication to make, the senate will adjourn. It is not likely, that a vote will be taken on the election cases until next session.

The nomination of James E. Neal, of Hamilton, Ohio, is the result of a personal request by ex-Governor Campbell, rein-

WAS IT A MISTAKE.

Comment on the Appointment of Echels as Comptroller of Currency.

Washington, April 4.-There was nomination sent in by the president yester day that caused some criticism among senators and especially it is said among the members of the finance committee to whom it was referred. That man is Mr. Echels, nominated to be comptroller of the currency. Mr. Echels is a well-known lawyer and is highly recommended as a man of attainment and legal learing, but there is a feeling among certain senators that a man to hold such a responsible position as comptroller of the currency should have had a training as a banker. This official re-ports in many cases direct to congress and man to hold such a responsible position as comptroller of the currency should have had a training as a banker. This official reports in many cases direct to congress and is not responsible to the secretary of the treasury. His dicisions are frequently final, and if not a practical man in the business, it is claimed he could do the treasury department incalculable injury.

It is noticeable that the nomination was reported today, and it is understood that the case has been referred by the finance committee to a subcommittee with instructions to investigate the qualifications of the nominee for this particular office.

It is probable that the appointment of Mr. Echels was a mistake and that it was the intention to nominate him for the position of second comptroller of the treasury.

Section 325, revised statutes, says that if the comptroller of the currency shall be appointed by the president it shall be on the recommendation of the secretary of the treasury. The provision of the statute, provided for the appointment to be made on the recommendation of the secretary of the treasury, was clearly not complied with, as it is asserted on unquestionable authority that Secretary Carlisle did not recommend the appointment and only knew of it a few moments before it was sent to the senate. For the past few days Mr. Echels has been inquiring as to the duties of the various heads of the treasury department, and it is asserted that the president told him to pick out any of the position. This, it is said, he did, and indicated his preference for the position of comptroller. In making out his nomination, "of the currency" was added to that of "comptroller of the currency."

Tallahassee, Fla., April 4.—The Florida legislature met here at noon and will continue in session sixty days. It consists of ninety-seven democratic and four people's party men. The democratic members met in caucus last night for the nomination of a speaker and president for the two houses. Tonight the democrats will probably nominate by acclamation Samuel Pasco, to succeed himself in the United States senate. His election will follow soon.

ANGRY WITH SENATOR MARTIN.

ANGRY WITH SENATOR MARTIN.

Populists Excited by an Alleged Exposition of His Views.

Topeka, Kans., April 4.—(Special.)—A Washington dispatch in a St. Louis paper, which has been widely republished in Kansas, has angered many populists at Senator Martin. The dispatch reads:

"Senator Martin has no doubt that when the crush is over he will have no trouble in convincing Mr. Cleveland and the members of his cabinet that the proper way to proceed regarding the distribution of the Kansas patronage is to recognize the party that knocked the republicans last fall and prevented Kansas from voting for Harrison.

"Martin believes that the populist party will have but a brief existence, and that it will naturally merge itself with the democrats in the near future, and that the liberal spirit of recognising the populist element by a democratic processing the populist element by a democratic process.

cratic president will tend very materially toward making the transition of the populist party toward the democratic party easy. Martin is backed by the advice of the shrewdest politicians in the democratic party and members of the democratic national committee."

The condemnation of Senator Martin by many straight populists is very bitter. They say if Martin is simply using them they will let him hear from them before the next election.

Albany, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Hon. Gazaway Hartridge, of Savannah, who was on the chautauqua programme for a lecture this morning on the "Girl of the Period," failed to come to time on account of missing a connection with the train at Thomasville. From that point he telegraphed asking if he could be used tonight, but no place could be found on the programme for him. It is one of the laws of chautauqua that when one of its speakers misses his hour he is not further considered in the programme.

In the place of Mr. Hartridge Rev. Edward Anderson, of Donalson, Conn., was substituted and delivered a grand lecture on "Pluck." He illustrated his lecture wery forcibly, for while he was speaking a severe rain and windstorm came up and the great tent flopped and swayed to such an extent that a large portion of the audience left it to take refuge in the courthouse. The orator, however, stood his ground and continued speaking amid all the noise and tumult which the storm engendered and was rewarded by being allowed to conclude in the midst of sunshine. His lecture was a grandly beautiful one and captivated every one who heard it.

the household tried to cheer her up and told her that she would find work soon. She took a gloomy yiew of the future, however, and nothing that was said to her had the effect of rousing her drooping spirits.

All day resterday she was not seen downstairs. She remained in her room the entire day, and no one save the colored girl who carried her her breakfast saw her during the day. She refused to eat breakfast and remained in her room. She did not come down to dinner or supper. At 10 o'clock last night one of the lady bearders in the house passed Miss Hamilton's room and saw a light burning. She called and receiving no answer stepped in..

On the bed lay Miss Maggie, her hands clenched, her face white as death. The alarm was quickly given and Dr. Ernest was called in. The young lady gave no signs of returning life and Miss Brockhan went for Dr. Westmoreland. Dr. Westmoreland work to work like a trooper and after an hour and a half of hard work had succeeded in reyiving Miss Hamilton with the aid of an electric battery. At 2 o'clock Dr. Westmoreland gave it as his opinion that the young woman would recover. She had not rallied enough to talk, but had been roused from the deathly stuper in which she was first found.

The young lady wrote no letter nor gave any reason for her rash act. A telegram was sent to her brother that she is dying and he is expected to arrive here this morning.

The appointment of Dr. Eben Alexander, of the University of North Carolina, as minister to Greece, possesses local interest to the people of Atlanta, as he is a brother of the wife of Judge W. T. Newman, of the United States district court. Dr. Alexander is about forty-one years of age; is a graduate of Yale college; is an East Tennesseean by birth, and was professor of Greek at the University of Tennessee before connecting himself with the University of North Carolina. He is a married man, with four children, and is said to be one, of the foremost Greek scholars of the country. His lectures on Greek literature have been quoted far and wide and his rank as a Greek scholar is thoroughly established. The appointment is a peculiarly fit one, and it seems that if the minister to any country should be appointed without distinctive political consideration, that our Greelan representative should be so selected, and that literary, rather than political qualifications, should have weight, as it has in this instance, in the naming of this appointee. Dr. Alexander is, of course, a stanch democrat, but he is above all things a profound scholar, and it will soon be seen that President Cleveland could not have made a worthler selection than in sending this distinguished professor to the famous old sent of learning.

Man She Was to Marry.

THE POLICE ARE AFTER THE COUPLE. | NEWS AND GOSSIP OF A DAY IN MACON.

The Mother of the Young Lady Says the Girl's Lover Induced Her to Run Away to Keep from Marrying Her.

Pretty petite seventeen-year-old Nancy Webb has run away from her home on Chestnut street, and her mother told Chief Connolly yesterday that she believed she had gone with rugged, rough, red-haired Wiley Scruggs, who is old enough to be the girl's father, but who was to have nade the young woman his bride in a very few days. Broken-hearted Mrs. Webb believes that Scruggs induced her daughter to leave home to keep from marrying her, as he had promised to do. The young woman disappeared from home yesterday morning early and simultaneously Wiley Scruggs, the girl's lover and a boarder at Mrs. Webb's, was missed.

Oircumstances surrounding the sudden departure of the two aroused the suspicions of Mrs. Webb and after learning to her full satisfaction that they had gone she called on Chief of Police Connolly and asked his help in bringing Scruggs to jusasked his help in bringing Scruggs to justice.

She was very much excited and declared that she would kill Scruggs if she could lay eyes on him. The strange part of the story is the fact that Scruggs was engaged to marry Nancy Webb and there was not a single obstacle to the union. Mrs. Webb had given her consent and all the preliminaries for the affair had been arranged. True Scruggs was thirty-five years old and Nancy was only seventeen, but he seemed deeply devoted to her and it was much better to be an old man's darling than a young man's slave, the fond mother thought.

The marriage was to have occurred next week, and not only the young bride-to-be, but the mother as well, looked forward to the occasion with happy feelings. The sudden and unexplained disappearance of the two yesterday morning upset all the arrangements for the wedding and threw Mrs. Webb into a very high state of indignation.

given to the marriage, if he still intended to make her his wife?

"I am convinced now that he intends to fool her," Mrs. Webb said. "Why else should he carry her off like that? I believe he has her at some place in the city, where he has induced her to go making her believe that he still intends to marry her, and he will keep her there until he tires of her and then will desert her. Oh, if I could find him, I would kill him!

"I want the police to help me find my daughter and arrest Scruggs. He has boarded at my house for several months and has won the complete confidence of my daughter. He could lead her anywhere, almost."

Mrs. Webb left descriptions of both her daughter and Scruggs with Chief Connolly. He promised to have the entire force watch out for the couple. Scruggs is a rock mason and is about thirty-five years old. He is a decided blonde and is very quiet. He earned a good salary following his trade.

Marletta, Ga., 'April 4.—(Special.)—The marriage of Miss Betty Humes Niles to Mr. William Jasper Trammell fook place here this evening at half past 8 o'clock.

this evening at half past 8 o'clock.

It was a quiet and happy marriage and the ceremony was performed in the historic and beautiful St. James's Episcopal church, over which the ivy leaves have climbed until it has been almost covered with its romantic robe of green, making it a most appropriate place in which to celebrate such an event. Within the church was artistically decorated with evergreens and flowers and under the soft, mellow lights the scene looked like fairyland. It was filled to overflowing with the many friends who had come to witness the ceremony. Promptly at the hour named, un-der the inspiring strains of the wedding march, skillfully rendered by Mrs. Cole, the bridal party entered. The ushers, Messrs.

James Anderson and Dewitt Cole, preceded elegant traveling costume of gray corded silk with hat to match, and as she slowly walked down 'the aisle was a picture of youthful grace and beauty rarely beheld.

They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. L. W. Wiggins. The bride was given away by her father. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive and was performed by the rector, Rev. C. T. A. Peise. At its conclusion the party drove to the depot, where the couple received many congratulations before boarding the northbound Western and Atlantic train for an extended tour to western cities. They will return in about two weeks and will shortly begin housekeeping in a lovely home now being built by Mr. Trammell on Trammell street. The presents were numerous and costly and unusually handsome. The new couple begins life with bright prospects. The bride belongs to one of the oldest and most prominent families in East Tennessee and is a worthy descendant of an illustrious ancestry. Mr. Trammell is a son of Hon. L. N. Trammell, chairman of the Georgia State raliroad commission, and holds a lucrative position with the Ocean Steamship Company. Their numerous friends wish them much happiness in the rosy walk of wedded life.

Miss Garrett, of Marietta, and Mr. Morehead, of Charlotte, N. C., will be married this afternoon at the residence of Captain T. W. Garrett, the bride's father. The wedding will be quiet, owing to a recent bereavement in Captain Garrett's family. After the ceremony the couple will leave on a tour through the north.

Mr. Morehead is a son of Colonel John L. Morehead, of Charlotte. He is a successful young business man and is of excellent family and has a high standing in his section of the state. Miss Garrett is a queenly young lady and has a wide circle of friends.

Only members of the families and a few intimate friends will be present at the ceremony.

Miss Lamson, the celebrated teacher of cooking, will come from her home in Milwaukee, Wis., to give a series of lessons to a class of ladies in Atlanta, who have sent for her. The school will be held in the Gate City Guard armory, and will open on Monday next.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS AND FORECAST.

Freezing temperatures were reported in the Dakotas early yesterday morning and temperatures low enough for frosts in the eastern iake region last night. In other sections of the country the weather has continued quite warm; in many districts yesterday was the warmest day so far this year. Three cities in Texas reported a maximum of over 90 degrees, the highest was at Abliene, temperature of 94 degrees. In the northwest, as far north as Kansas City and North Platte, the temperature went up to 76 degrees. In the northwast, as far north as Kansas City and North Platte, the temperature went up to 76 degrees. In the northeast, Baltimore reported a temperature of 78 degrees, and New York city one of 70 degrees. Atlanta's highest temperature yesterday, 76 degrees, begins this early in the season to illustrate the fact of the much more even climate of this section than that in the northern states, neither bitter cold in winter nor excessively hot in summer.

During the past thirty-six hours scattered showers have fallen over the country east of the Alleganies, mostly near the Atlantic coast. No rain is reported in other sections except locally in the Dakotas.

For Georgia today—Generally fair, continued warm.

Macon, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—The hearing of the Central railroad engineers' case was resumed this morning at 10 o'clock before Judge Speer.

Receiver Comer, who was on the witness stand when court adjourned yesterday afternoon, was placed there again today when court convened. He was put through a rigid and extensive examination by Hon. R. W. Patterson, attorney for the engineers, which was largely of the nature of cross-examination. His testimony today practically covered the evidence given by Mr. Comer yesterday. At one time the questions and answers of Attorney Patterson and Receiver Comer were of an argu-mentative turn, and Judge Speer said that the intellectual contest betwen two bright men—Attorney Patterson and Receiver Comer—was very interesting and in-tertaining, but suggested that it would be better for counsel to re-serve his argument for the court. Mr. Patterson took the hint and left his line of argumentative questioning, remarking in passing that he had been led into that chan-

Comer.
Mr. Patterson endeavored to prove by Mr. Comer that he had refused to sign a contract with the engineers because his general superintendent, Mr. George Dole Wadley, was opposed to labor organizations and did not wish to encourage them.

Judge Speer interrupted Mr. Patterson in his questioning and stated that he could not see what Mr. Wadley had to do with the matter now hefore the court and fur-not see what Mr. Wadley had to do with the matter now before the court, and further stated that "the court will decide this question without reference to Mr. Wadley's view as a controlling precedence."

Chairman Waterhouse, of the engineers' committee, and Engineers Boliman and Ficklin, were put on the stand by Attorney Patterson in rebuttal.

Mr. Comer was asked by Attorney Patterson what had been his experience prior to being appointed receiver of the Central road. Receiver Comer replied that he had been a director of the Central road from 1883 to 1887, and had slso been president of the Southbound railroad for about two years.

two years.

Assistant Grand Chief Youngson, who testified yesterday, went again on the stand today and testified to the genuineness, etc.,

of contracts with various roads.

This ended all testimony and the court then inquired of counsel how much time they required to speak. Mr. Patterson said he would speak two hours, and Mr. Cunningham said he would not speak longer than that. Court then took a recess of five minutes.

After the recess Mr. Patterson asked the privilege of introducing two witnesses before commencing the argument, Engineers Henry and Manning. They testified before commencing the argument, Engineers Henry and Manning. They testified on the subject of mileage and over time, and the seniority clause.

Argument was then commenced. Mr. Patterson opened in a ten minutes speech in which he gave his points in the case to the opposing counsel. Mr. Cunningham then began his speech and concluded, and court adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when Mr. Patterson will make his concluding argument.

The main point in the case is that the rule of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which forbids an engineer of one road hauling the cars of another road on which there is no strike. The burden of Mr. Patterson's argument will be directed upon that. Mr. Patterson thinks it would be well to have the contract made without any reference to this rule and say nothing about the rule in the contract, and if an engineer refuses to haul the cars of another road he can be removed if the road sees fit. Mr. Patterson emphasizes his belief that Receiver Comer and Superintendent Wadley didn't wish to sign the contract with the engineers just because they did not care to recognize or treat with labor organizations.

The negro is a resident of Griffin. About ten days ago he burglarized the house of Charley Conley, another negro. He escaped but was arrested at Senoia today and brought to Griffin and lodged in jail.

About an hour after his incarceration he asked for a drink of water. A little boy carried the water to him in a jug, but his mother told the little child as the negro was a strange prisoner she would accompany him. So she stood at the head of the stairs while the little boy carried the water to the cell. The negro asked the child if his father was at home and receiving a negative answer would not allow the child to close the door, but attempted to push it open and escape.

a hegative answer would not allow the child to close the door, but attempted to push it open and escape.

Mrs. Schultz went to her child's assistance, and, holding a pistol in one hand, tried with the other to close the door.

"If you don't close this door I'll shoot you," said the brave woman.

The negro forced the door open and grabbed the pistol pushing the woman up behind the door. Desperately pressing the trigger the woman sent a ball into the negro and followed this by another and another.

At the last shot he fell to the floor. Five shots were fired. He received one ball in the hand, two in the right leg below the knee, one in the left leg above the knee and one, the only serious wound, through the body, the ball striking a rib and glancing round.

Dr. E. A. Anthony was called in to at-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Word Wisely Put. To the Public-If the people of Fulton county decide to issue bonds for courthouse and other public buildings, one thing should be insisted upon, that is, that all the material used in construction should come from the soil of Georgia, so that when in pointing to the structures, we can say that every material that has entered into their erection was the production of Georgia soil. We have the best marble, granite, slate, iron, sand for glass-making, etc.; in fact no better advertisement for Georgia could be made than having a building wholly to the last detail, such as locks, nails, etc., from Georgia soil and manufactured by Georgia mechanics. Let us do everything to develop Georgia re sources and give employment to Georgia workmen. Be it understood, however, that we are not narrow-minded, but will give the right hand of fellowship to every one that settles amongst us, and they can rely upon an equal showing in the race to make Georgia great. Most Furopean countries are hackneyed as subjects for the platform and the white screen, but Mr. Donald Downie affuses novelty into every theme and his Japan is thoroughly and our Mr. Downle Minses novely into every theme and his Japan is thoroughly and refreshingly new. Our people have never had the pleasure of such an artistic and intellectual treat as the lecture last evening on the Island Empire of the Mikado, the land of the rising sun. It is not only that the colored views were the finest and most artistic, from first to last, and worthy of that home of art, but Mr. Downle's treatment is at once scholarly and extremely interesting. The brilliant landscapes and gilded temples, the bronze buddhas, the grand trees of the Nikko avenue, the splendid boulevard of the Tokado, the delightful road to Nikko, and the pictures of charming domestic life, and court life, all carried us on to the eminently proper conclusion that the boasted western civilization has something to learn from that of the ancient archilelago. We feel justified in recommending to Professor Downie.—Wheeling, W. Va., Herald.

ELECTROPOISE VICTORY.

The Only Genuine!

A CURE WITHOUT MEDICINE

The Electropoise "Victory" is the result of thirty-five years of conscientious labor by the talented scientist, Dr. H. Sanche. It is not presented to the public as an imperfect, crude appliance, which sometimes gives satisfactory results and sometimes not. The Electropoise "Victory," sold by us today, is the perfected appliance, tried by many thousands of weary sufferers from seemingly hopeless diseases and never found wanting. The Electropoise "Victory" in itself is not a new remedy—it is simply a new way of applying an old remedy. This remedy is OXYGEN, which as you know is nature's universal remedy for all diseased or wasted tissues of the body. The Electropoise "Victory" is the medium through which the body absorbs this life-giving oxygen. Miraculous as some of the cures effected by the Electropoise "Victory" may seem to you, they are but the result of the application of a material remedy which you find all around you in the air, in the water and issuing from the plant, but which heretofore you have been unable to use because of the lack of a proper appliance. At last it has come in the shape of the Electropoise "Victory," a simple little appliance so small as to be easily carried in the vest pocket. Remember the Electropoise "Victory" has already been used by thousands of sick people, and we will take pleasure in showing their grateful testimonials.

The Electropoise "Victory" WILLI-cure rheumatism, neuralgia, insomnia, nervousness, constipation, chills, colds, fevers, kidney, liver and spinal diseases, pneumonia, la grippe, etc.

Mr. Halstead Finds a Champion. A correspondent of Secretary Smith's evening newspaper, who hides his identity under initials that we fail to recognize, devotes considerable space to what he is pleased to term "The Halstead-Howell Controversy," and proceeds to develop an anti-silver ambuscade. The initials employed are 'R. S. S.," and as Mr. Halstead has a Cincinnati partner named Richard Smith, engaged in the business of republican and anti-democratic journalism, it may be that he has deemed it necessary to rush to the rescue of the field marshal. That this is not a strained inference may be gathered from a remark in the very beginning of the article, "My purpose in this communication," says R. S. S., reassuringly, "is not to question any of the statements made by Editor Halstead."

The reader is not left long in doubt about the matter, for not only are none of Editor Halstead's statements questioned, but we are left to surmise that this distinguished republican journalist is engaged in belching forth democratic doctrine of the purest kind. His statements are pratically substantiated and upheld.

It should be said, however, that the main business of R. S. S. (can he indeed be Deacon Richard Smith, of Clucinnati?) is not to uphold Editor Halstead's statements-though he does that very cleverly-but to show that The Constitution is misrepresenting Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Carlisle and the democratic platform. In fact this is put in the form of a charge. "I charge," says R. S. S., In the first place "that Editor Howell has misrepresented Mr. Cleveland. Secondly, that he has misrepresented Mr. Carlisle, and, thirdly, that he has misrepresented the democratic platform."

Mr. Halstead has constantly made the same charges, but this was not more than might have been expected.

Our readers know precisely in what our misrepresentations consist. We said before the election, when thousands of democrats in Georgia and the south were hositating about supporting Mr., Cleveland that he stood squarely on the democratic platform which contained a strong declaration in behalf of bimetallism-a delaration in behalf of the coinage of silver on the same terms with gold, which is nothing else but unlimited coinage. We have said since the election that the reasons we had for suggesting that Mr. Cleveland had received new light on the silver question were, first, that he endorsed the democratic platform, and, second, that he had appointed Mr. Carlisle, a free coinage democrat, to be his secretary of the treasury.

It is true that what we said of Mr. Cleveland had a basis of hope rather than of facts, but by what right does this highly favored anonymous correspondent presume to say that Mr. Cleveland represents the goldbug and Shylock element of the east rather than the great democratic party which elected him to office?

The interpretation placed on the financial plank of the democratic platform by The Constitution and the great majority of the democratic party, is justified not only by the plain meaning of the words but by the declarations in behalf of the coinage of silver to be found in the democratic platforms of twenty states, including the great state of Georgia.

The anonymous correspondent rushes to the rescue of Editor Halstead alludes to those who are in favor of the free coinage of silver as "pharisaical ong ago that Secretary Smith and his ditors were standing squarely on th free coinage platform erected by the pharisaical democrats" of Georgia, and one of them was elected to Chicago by these "pharsaical democrats" on this same "pharisaical" platform. Where they stand now we do not know, nor is it at all important to know; but we know where the democratic party of Georgia and of the country stands.

As for Mr. Carlisle, we are surprised to learn from Secretary Smith's correspondent that he is not in favor of the free coinage of silver. He voted for the senate free coinage bill in 1890, and in the letter which the correspondent garbles and backs, he makes this declaration, which goes to the root of the whole

"If an attempt should be made now by the United States alone to authorize the free coinage of silver, and so fix the ratio by legislation as to make a gold and silver dollar of equal intrinsic value, it would be obviously unfair to make the present commercial value of silver bullion the basis of the adjustment, because the partial demonetization of silver by limiting the coinage has undoubtedly had considerable influence in depreciating its price and appreciating the price or value of gold. The free and unlimited coinage of silver upon any ratio that might be established, would, therefore, have a tendency to bring the value of the two metals nearer to each other, and the true ratio for the purpose of coipage would be found at some point between sixteen to one and the present relative prices of silver and gold bullion."

As the whole of Mr., Carlisle's letter leads up to this statement, it must be taken for granted that it represents his views, and we refuse to have his posttion interpreted for us by any agent or advocate of eastern goldolatry or Shy-

We call upon the correspondent of Secretary Smith's paper to step from behind the screen and let the people of Georgia know who it is that characterizes Mr. Carlisle as a pharisee.

Let them see who it is that has the authority to twist paltforms and to impute motives to those democrats who feel that their dearest interests are sacrificed Industrial Education for the Negro. The directors of the Commercial Club and the Chamber of Commerce incidentally considered at a joint lunch, yesterday, a suggestion of great importance.

Ex-Governor Bullock read a letter from Dr. J. L. M. Curry, the representative of the Slater fund, in which the statement was made that the trustees of the fund were in favor of diverting the interest on it from its present object, the literary education of the negro, to the establishment in the south of an institution devoted to the manual and indus trial training of the negro. The point was made that the institution should be located in or near Atlanta and a resolution endorsing this suggestion and the proposed change in the application of the Slater money was unanimously adopted.

Undoubtedly, it would be more sensible and practical to expend this fundthe annual interest on $1,000,000-in giving the negroes an industrial education that will enable them to earn their living, instead of using it in teaching them Greek and Latin and all the branches of higher education. The present system turns out too many negro professors and scholars vainly hunting a job, but the proposed change would equip its beneficiaries for steady and remunerative employment, and make them self-supporting, at the shop or on the farm.

We believe that industrial education will make the negro a better citizen. The ability to scientifically handle implements, farming or otherwise, skillfully, will yield him more money than he would ever make out of Greek and Latin.

Immigration Facts.

It is stated in our telegraphic column that a tremendous tide of immigration from other states is rapidly pouring into South Dakota Every village receives from one to ten families per week from Minnesota, Iowa or Illinois. The railroads are running extra trains to carry the immigrants and their goods. New counties are being organized and land is rapidly rising in value.

Now, these immigrants are going to a land where the inhabitants last winter were obliged to enter their houses by the windows in the second stories on account of the deep snow. They are going to settle in a state where winter reigns half the year. They will have to fight a deadly climate, and their industry will be only half rewarded.

If they had looked far to the southward they would have seen a land of promise, fair as a garden of the gods, where every prospect pleases and where a man can work out doors 365 days in the year. They would have seen in our wonderfu Piedmont region and other sections of the south localities where cheap and productive farming lands, fields of coal and iron and timber and other natural resources offer the most tempting inducements to capital and enterprise. would have seen, too, a warm-hearte people, eager to welcome home seekers and they would have seen also those in stitutions and conveniences which make life enjoyable and which are yet to be established in the wild and bleak Dakotas. But the immigrants from abroad and from the eastern states continue their westward rush. They do not come some ward because the south makes no organized effort to secure them. We virtually hide our advantages and walt for the world to accidentally find us out. A change in our policy would work wonders. The southern governors when they meet in Richmond on the 12th should see the ball in motion. Each state sh organize an immigration bureau, and with spring up in the north and in Europe. Suppose our railroads should enter into the scheme with the methods adopted by sult would fill the south with population and capital.

We need more people and more money. We can obtain both by meeting them half way. Hereafter the western immi gration agents in the east and in Europe should have to compete with southern agents who will be equipped with all the information that home seekers ask for It will take organized effort, but if the south would progress and prosper she will have to draw capital, enterprise skill and good people from other sections and other countries. Let the outside world know the true situation, and the ery will be "Southward, ho!"

We Must Redeem Our Pledges.

The Augusta Chronicle hits the nail squarely on the head when it says that the continuance of the democrats in power beyond the present administration depends upon their honest compliance with the party's pledges.

As our contemporary puts it, the demo cratic party triumphed in the recent election because of its pledges to the people. It is now for the first time in thirty years in supreme control of the government. If its promises are not made good the people will hold the party responsible, and the party will hold the administration to a strict account. The national contest was won on the financial and tariff planks of our platform, and s democratic congress is in duty bound to pass such laws as will enable the president to put these reforms into practical operation. Nothing could be truer than these time y words of admonition. They come from an old and influential democratic newspaper which did more than any other agency to save the tenth district from being captured by the third party.

The Chronicle's views are exactly in ine with The Constitution's repeated utterances. The administration must fully redeem the promises of our platform, and carry out the financial and tariff reforms to which it stands pledged. It must do this or stand before the democratic party and the people in the position of a man who has violated his solemn promise to his neighbors. Broken pledges discredit an individual, and it is the same way with an administration.

This is the situation. It is all nonsense to talk about the speedy dissolution of the republican party. That party will lose or gain strength in proportion to our fidelity or lack of fidelity to our platform. A trimming, hedging policy on the part of the new administration in financial and tariff matters would rehabilitate the republicans or build up the third party.

The anti-silver ambuscade in Georgia will have to be uncovered.

We do not believe that twenty-four hur dred and eighty-seven offices distributed in Georgia would have the effect of making the democratoc party of this state a goldbug party and a tender to eastern syplock

Mr. Maxwell has a muscular arm and the way that he wields the official ax gives great pain to the mugwump spectators.

The people of Atlanta can settle the mat ter of the postmastership by holding a primary. We don't want to see Martinsville, N. C., get ahead of Marthasville, Ga.

It is settled that the country postmasters must be democrats.

When France gets a new cabinet it is to be hoped she will give it a coat of hard oil and put it in a dry place. The democrats of Georgia will bear in mind the fact that the administration is not responsible for the interpretation of the silver plank of the platform by Secretary Smith's editors and correspondents.

The telephone connection between Atlanta and Covington will soon be completed and we can then call up Uncle Jim Anderson four times a day and pump him for the news.

Here is a pathetic side light on the sufferings of the faithful Georgia editor in more than a single instance:

"Dear Friends and Delinquents—We are averse to arousing you from your idylic dreams of beauteous spring and rosy summer, by a common request that you forget us not, in the day of settlement; but the diet of air and promises, which has long served us, has grown monotonous in the extreme, and with the change of seasons, we find ourself also longing for a change. In fact, we must have it. It takes change to run a paper." It is taken for granted that Editor Phil

If any one is still doubtful about the signs the times indicating the actual presence of the spring-time, we refer them to the testimony of one of our Georgia editors. He says:
"On this pellucid day, when the sky is so beautifully blue and the sun so warm and cheerful, when the jaybirds are chanting their safe return from purgatory and the crows are cawing over the sprouting corn. the sheep bells tingle merrily in the meadows and children romping and chickens cackling, it seems that everything in nature is rejoicing that spring is here once more."

One of our exchanges puts the demand for a short crop of cotton and diversified products in a new way, by remarking: "Since Keeley came, men are able to leave off whisky and tobacco, but a greater fortune awaits the discoverer of a remedy for the guano mania and the all-cotton plan of farm-ing."

The Macon Telegraph, commenting on The Macon Telegraph, commenting on ex-Governor Bullock's remarks about the Geor-gia dog crop, pertinently says:

"The worthless dogs of whose welfare our legislators are so careful deprive the state of a source of wealth that would, in time, do much to enrich that class of people who are rost in need of help and have suffered most in the past from unwise legislation. Anti-dog legislation is not beneath the dignity of the Georgia legislator, as he may discover when he becomes more of a patriot and less of a politician."

The press of Georgia has, with practical unanimity, rejoiced that Joe James got the 'possum in the district attorneyship hunt. Joe is hard to beat, as one may readily see from this part of his biography:

"It has been but a few years since he splis rails by the light of the moon to fence his crop—then his only income was from a few acres of land bought on a credit. The first office he held was high constable. From that high exalted office he succeeded to the office of justice of the peace at the death of his father, who had held the office for years. At this time new asperations seemed to light up his path. He saw a broad light in the dim future that seemed to give him new life and he began to study the code furnished him by the state by pine knot fires. As he would read at night and study the perplexing questions in his justice court the idea struck him to become a lawyer."

In the meantime Van Haltren had started from the Pacific slope for Chicago and when he reached the town in which Anson resided he was faced with the telegrams from Mr. Ryan. Anson knew that he could not play Van Haltren and quickly convinced the kid from the west that he was in the soun unless he came to Atlanta or secured his release as Atlanta was then under the protection the national agreement offered.

But Anson was just as anxious then for Van Haltren's services as Mr. Ryan was, and began a trade with the president of the Atlanta club. It didn't take Mr. Ryan long to learn that Van Haltren would not come to Atlanta unless he was made to come, and after a long correspondence during which Van was lying idle, Anson agreed to give up several hundred dollars for the player. Ryan realized that the money was better than the player who, in the meantime had been blacklisted, and waived all claims to Van Haltren.

And that is the way Van Haltren got into the National League.

Anson put up Mauck, McGill and McGinnis, and two of the three men were given a terrible thumping. Mauck led off and in the three innings he pitched the Atlantas made eight hits. McGill, however, was hard to reach, and not a single hit was made by the Atlantas off his delivery. McGinnis, who worked for the last three innings, was hit for three singles and one home run.

Dewald pitched a fine game and only four hits were made off him in the eight innings. Rettger, who took Dewald's place, did some fine work from the box, and the one run made off his delivery was the result of an accident more than anything else.

A STORY THAT RIVALS RED BACK

Novels - Mrs. Thomas Tells It Herself. Forced to Marry a Man She Had Known Only a Week.

Not even the most lurid red-back literature kept in stock by the average news butcher can outdo the exceedingly remarkable story of the marriage of Mrs. Fannie Thomas, which story that lady detailed to Captain Manley from start to finish yesterday morn-

Some idea of its sensational qualities r be gained from the mere statement that that lady was driven to the altar at the muzzle of a very ugly looking and business-like revolver, and that her husband of a day deserter her after a few short hours of wedlock. How can flimsy fiction without any artistic merit at all and no qualities to recommend it but its sensationalism hope to find a market after such a story from real

Mrs. Fannie Thomas is a lady of perhaps thirty-three or thirty-four years. She lives in Cook's district about three miles west of the city. Life with her is a very cheerless sort of business, consisting of a dull routine of household duties without any social relaxations thrown in to spice it with pleas ure. She has been once married, but her first husband left her and she cannot tell where he is. He might be dead for all she knows to the contrary. Fiction writers often tell of cases of love at first sight and that is what happened in this case. Last Thursday Mrs. Thomas met Frank Schulzer, a German, who said he was a stone mason. But because Cchulzer was a stone mason was no reason that he did not have a streak of because Centizer was a stone mason was no reason that he did not have a streak of romance in his composition very largely developed. He had no sooner laid eyes on Mrs. Thomas than he decided that he must marry her, and as if he feared some other suitor would get in ahead of him, Schulzer straightway laid a proposal of marriage before Mrs. Thomas.

Of course she was surprised. What lady wouldn't be surprised to receive an offer of marriage from an acquaintance of two hours? She said: "Alas, I have a husband, I guess. At least, I did have, and he may still be living. I cannot wed you."

The principle that faint heart never won fair lady had been very deeply instilled into the breast of Mr. Schulzer, and he did not despair upon being refused. He pressed his suit fervently, and every time he came in sight of Mrs. Thomas he renewed his offer of marriage with more fervor than before.

sight of Mrs. Thomas he renewed his offer of marriage with more fervor than before. All's fair in love and war, is another saying that had been taught Mr. Schulzer in youth. Monday afternoon he went to Mrs. Thomas prepared for desperate measures. He was armed with a pistol and he very frankly informed that lady that she could take her choice between death and marrying him. He said he had a license ready. Her arrangements for death being in a rather unsettled state, Mrs. Thomas decided that it would be wise to accompany Schulzer and become his bride. He forced her to go, and fearing that she would be shot every moment, she went to the residence of Justice Cook, where she was married to Schulzer.

shot every moment, she went to the residence of Justice Cook, where she was married to Schulzer.

After the marriage ceremony she went to Schulzer's home with him. He made her promise to say nothing of the method he had used to get her to marry him, and fearing he would kill her if she told, she discreetly kept silence.

Yesterday morning Schulzer left and Mrs. Thomas has not seen him since. She came into the city at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and went at once to police headquarters, where she told her story. Captain Manley, to whom she talked, could do nothing, as the affair occurred outside of the city. He advised her to go before Justice Cook and have a warrant issued for Schulzer, and also have the marriage undone. She left declaring that she would do so.

Captain Manley was rather skeptical about the story at first, but Mrs. Thomas appeared to be genuine, and told a pretty straightforward story.

The cause of his death was peritonitis. He had been ill for several days, but no one considered him in any immediate danger. His death therefore was comparatively sudden and was a great blow to those who attended him in his last moments.

Mr. McAfee was in business here and his visit to Eatonton was on business. He was a man of broad culture, and at one time was a man of considerable wealth. He had many friends in this city and his death casts a gloom over the entire community.

until Colonel Buck can inquire more closely into the matter.

According to the information received by Colonel Buck it would seem that an act was passed at the last session of congress changing the law as to the place of the sale of real estate, the sale to be made in the county where the property is instead of where the United States court is held.

The act is a new one on Colonel Buck, if it is in existence, and he was informed of it by the attorneys for the plaintiff in regard to the sale of some property that was to have been sold yesterday. The property in question is situated in Polk and Coweta counties and therefore, according to Colonel Buck's informant, must be both advertised and sold in those counties by the marshal or his deputy.

So, in the light of this, the property will have to be advertised again and afterwards sold in the county where it is situated.

have to be advertised again and afterwards sold in the county where it is situated. As soon as Colonel Buck was given the information mentioned he stopped further proceedings until he can receive instructions from headquarters.

Speaking of the situation, Colonel Buck said:

"No, there was no marshal's sale today. I was informed of something which, if it is a fact, is something new to me, which caused me to call the sale off until I could make further investigation. I was about to sell some property that is located in Polk and Coweta counties, when I postponed the sale on account of the request of the attorney for the plaintiffs on receiving the information that congress, at its last session, had passed a law making it necessary to sell the property in the county where it is situated, and to advertise the same in said county."

District Attorney James's Second Day.

Yesterday was Colonel James's second Day.
Yesterday was Colonel James's second day in office and he still smiles in a radiant manner. Business was light and the colonel received a number of visitors. The only matter attended to by the district attorney was to dispose of a moonshiner who plead guilty, knowing, presumably, that it would hardly be worth while to attempt an escape from the legal grasp of District Attorney James.

Colonel Darnell was in the office of Colonel James the greater part of the day and doubtless let him into the bottom facts in the Redwine matter. District Attorney James has received no orders from the department to proceed in the matter, and he has not received any message from District Attorney James's Second Day.

Two of the Candidates for Postmaster Investigate the Old Tax Books.

Major J. W. Couper has been investigating the tax records some himself. Since his citizenship has been questioned he has looked up the records and found that his name is down for 1886, 1887, 1888 and 1893. In 1887 he has credit for paying his property tax, but no poll tax. The next year he appears as having paid both. After that the property is returned in his wife's name.

Both he and Dr. Fox had slips of paper yesterday with a memorandum of what the records show.

"I have the proofs that I did pay taxes prior to 1892," said Major Couper. "The tax receipts for 1886, 1887, and 1888 show that I did pay for those years. My name may not appear for three or four years. It always left my tax matters in the hands of Mr. George M. Traylor, my son-in-law, while I was away attending to my manufacturing interests. My property on Ponce de Leon circle was bought for my wife, she having money left her in her own name which formed the nucleus. She has since sold one-half interest in the property to Mr. Traylor. I deny the declaration that I paid no taxes prior to 1892. I hear that an affidavit has been sent to Washington stating that I have not paid taxes prior to last year. Such an affidavit is simply unwarranted."

The books at the statehouse were thoroughly examined in the interest of Dr. Fox and no record was found there except as tallying with the books in Andy Stewart's office. The memorandum which Dr. Fox had contained the dates of several years with the penciled remark that Major Couper's name does not appear on the tax records for those years.

Major Couper was born near Brunswick and was educated at Marietta and West Point. At the commencement of the war he was a civil engineer on a failroad, which is now the Illinois Central. He enlisted in the Twentieth Mississippi regiment and was adjutant. He made a gallant soldier and came out of the war with a fine record.

THEIR DECENNIAL ANNIVERSARY.

The Members of the Church of Our Father Will Celebrate Tonight.

The decennial anniversary of the Church of Our Father will be celebrated tonight.

A delightful programme has been arranged and the evening promises to be one of rare entertainment to those who attend. The membership of the church has grown rapidly since the date of its organization in this city, and the result of earnest and patient work has been happily rewarded.

Rev. George Leonard Cheney, the first pastor of the church, whose residence in Atlanta is recalled with a great deal of pleasure by his many friends and admirers in this city, will deliver the anniversary address, and all who attend may expect a genuine treat from this rarely gifted and scholarly man.

Several other short addresses will be delivered and the music will be a special feature of the exercises. The services will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and all are cordially invited to attend.

THEY RENDERED A VERDICT.

Judge Marshall Clarke Authorizes a Jury to Settle the Question of Fees.

The Ryan case, which in all of its aspects has been the most remarkable one ever tried in Fulton county, is now rapidly drawing to an end.

Yesterday morning the decision of Judge Clarke sustaining the award of Auditor Peeples in regard to the distribution of fees and other matters connected with a settlement of the case so far as the receivership is concerned was submitted to the jury and a verdict in accordance with the finding of the court duly authorized according to law.

The following award of the fees was made: Receiver Kingsbery, for his services in the case since his appointment, $12,000; Rosser & Carter, $15,000; taxes due the city, $1,053, and taxes due the state and county, $619.20.

All other facts in connection with the case as substantiated by the evidence were set out in the verdict, which was properly signed by the foreman and turned over to the proper officers for the purpose of being recorded. Judge Marshall Clarke Authorises a Jury to

WIFE AND DAUGHTER DRIVEN AWAY.

Two Citizens of Carrollton Were the Participants in the Fusilade - Bad

The entire story of the case against Mr. Wiley Lee, of Heard county, for assault, which has just been concluded in the Heard county court, is a most interesting one and has been the talk of the county for several years.

Mr. Lee is one of the best and most substantial citizens of that section of the country, and is also very wealthy and in-fluential, being respected by all who know him. Some years ago there was a rumor put out that Mr. Lee was too intimate with a sister of the Perkerson brothers, well-known men in that section also. The name of the lady was Mrs. Etcherson. As soon as the rumor came to the ears of Mr. Lee he ceased all relationship with the father of the lady, Mr. Perkerson, although they had been hitherto on the best of terms and very close friends.

A church trial followed the apparently scandalous affair, and the bottom was reached with the result that Mr. Lee was vindicated by the church jury. Mrs. Etcherson was driven away from home by her father and brothers, and the father made a will excluding her from any par-ticipation in his property. The mother of the disinherited daughter, Mrs. Perkerson, took sides with her daughter, and she, too, was driven away and her name taken out of the will. Lee brought suit during the life time of Mr. Perkerson against him charging him with slander. Mrs. Etcherson followed suit and instituted proceedings against both her father and her brother, Bob Perkerson. In the meantime the father of Mrs. Etcherson died and the suits against him were suspended. The suit of Mrs. Etcherson, however, against her brother was brought to trial. He plead "privileged communication" and "justification."

The jury brought in a verdict against the plea of justification, but a verdict in favor of him on the plea of privileged communication. The case then went to the su-preme court, and it was held there could be no privilege, and the plaintiff was granted a new trial. The will of Mrs. Etcherson's father, Mr. Perkerson, was then propounded for probate, and Mrs. Etcherson filed a caveat to the will. This case was tried, and as to her the will was set aside. That case is now pending in the supreme court.

Out of the litigation there grew bad feelings and both sides were pretty much excited, Lee claiming to live in constant apprehension, as it is said that Ambrose Perkerson had been heard to threaten his life several times. This apprehension on the part of Lee has lasted about three

On the 9th of February in 1892 Mr. Lee, with some negro men, was fixing a wagon of his that had broken on the roadside, and while he was at work Ambrose Perkerson passed along the road on horseback. As to what followed there are two

Mr. Lee claims that when Perkerson got even with him he said: "I've got you where I want you."

It seems, according to Lee, that he discovered that Perkerson had his pistol out, and with that he covered Perkerson with a second gun, at the same time requesting him to put up the gun and pass quietly along the road and there would be nothing said or done by Lee. Perkerson very willingly acquiesced, still quoting Lee, at the same time returning his pistol to his pocket. Perkerson rode on for a short distance and suddenly dismounted from his horse on the opposite side to Lee. Perkerson fired twice, wounding Lee at both fires, once in the thigh and once in the hip. Lee then entered into the spirit of the kerson fired twice, wounding Lee at both fires, once in the high and once in the high. Lee then entered into the spirit of the thing and whipping out his gun began to answer Perkerson, but with not such happy results, as Perkerson was ensconced behind his horse. Lee's right hand is useless, he having been wounded upon it in some way. It seems that Perkerson, after he got tired of shooting, or his ammunition gave out, advanced upon Lee and attacked him vigorously with the butt end of his pistol. Lee then secured a stick and run Perkerson off.

The Theory Advanced by Mr. Perkerson.

The preliminaries to the fusilade between the two men appear to coincide, except that Perkerson says that he did not have his pistol out, but disclaimed to Lee that he had a gun at all, and further that he never stopped his horse at all until after he had been fired on by Lee. Perkerson claims that as he got even with Lee that Lee drew a large and dangerous looking weapon and asked him to put up his gun. Perkerson, according to Perkerson, incisted that he did not have a gun, and continued to ride on as he talked, and finally jumped off his horse when Lee commenced to place bullets too near his person. He responded to Lee's vigorous attack with the result that Lee was shot twice. Perkerson was then attacked by Lee, who used a heavy stick to great advantage upon him.

The Matter in Conclusion.

The Matter in Conclusion Both men were indicted by the grand jury for assault with intent to murder, and the grand jury was not a long ways off a very warm trial as there was some pretty close shooting done.

The case of Perkerson was called, but he approunced not ready, claiming that

The case of Perkerson was called, but he announced not ready, claiming that one of his most important witnesses was necessarily absent. Lee, however, had made a demand for trial and the demand had been placed on the minutes of the court proceedings, and when the case was called announced ready. His case was sent to the jury without argument, and the jury was out for the greater part of two days and a night, returning a verdict of shooting at another. The court immediately imposed a fine of $100, inclusive of costs. At the time of fining Lee the judge stated that he regretted exceedingly that it had become his duty to do what he was obliged to do. He also took occasion to remark that he had known Mr. Lee for many years, and regarded him as one of the best citizens in the county.

A gentleman who was in the courtroom offered to pay half of Mr. Lee's fine, which offer was, of course, refused by Mr. Lee, as he is a wealthy gentleman.

And Decide Whether or Not the Election Will Be Postponed-Apportion-ment of the Money.

There will be a meeting of the board of There will be a meeting of the board or county commissioners this morning.

The object of the meeting, aside from the transaction of regular business, will be to consider the advisability of deferring the election on county bonds until the 16th of May, at which time the city will vote on the question of issuing water bonds and thus consolidate that two elections.

thus consolidate the two elections.

This plan was recommended at the meeting of the Commercial Club which was held in the Chamber of Commerce last Monday evening.

Mr. C. A. Collier, a representative of the board, was present and expressed him-self in favor of the proposition, as being perhaps a wise economy of time. Instead of holding two separate elections it was bet-ter to have all of them at the same time and save the voters the trouble and worry of going to the polls twice.

In order to change the time of the elec-

In order to change the time of the election as already agreed upon by the commissioners it will be necessary to change the advertisement and to insert a new one for an extra thirty days. This can be done without difficulty as the board meets this morning and the city election does not occur for at least thirty days yet.

However the whole matter will be discussed by the board today. They may agree to hold the election at the time already named, on the 13th of the present month, in which even the matter will stand exactly as it is at present.

How the money Will Be Spent.

How the Money Will Be Spent.

A resolution will be introduced today providing for the apportionment of the $600.000, provided the bonds are voted at the forthcoming election.

That apportionment, as heretofore announced, will be as follows: for the courthouse to be erected on the present site, $450.000; for the new jail, $100.000 and for the reformatory prison, $50.000.

It is probable that a circular will be sent out into the county in the event the date of the election is postponed fully setting forth all the information that is necessary to fully explain the needs of the contemplated improvements.

This is necessary on account of the mis-apprehension which prevails in many local-ities in regard to the bonds. Many sup-pose that the credit of the county is over-taxed and that the bonds will very materialtaxed and that the bonds will very materially increase the rate of taxation.

The address will give the situation in its true light and will show that the bonded debt of the county is at present comparatively small: that the enormous wealth of the county is such as to authorize it, especially in view of the imperative needs of the buildings for improvement.

The question of the circular will come up before the county fathers this morning, and if the election is deferred the probabilities are that the circular letter will be issued.

There Will Be More Registration.

Those who have already registered, or Those who have already registered, or who voted in the last county election will not be required to do so this time, but all others will, if they expect or desire to vote on the issue of bonds.

The action of the board today will be awaited with considerable interest.

Captain Harry Jackson may not return to the city from the north for several days yet. He did expect to start back today, but it was reported yesterday that his return had

Georgians coming home from Washington have the impression that Captain Jackson will retire from the prosecution of the Gate City bank investigation, perhaps not alto-gether, but as leading attorney. They have no official ground for this belief or do not confess to it but assert it. Gossiping continues, but there is nothing authentic in the most of the new rumors going around. THE NEW YORK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, April 4.—The stock market was far less active than of late. Manhattan broke 4 points to 1601-2, on a reiteration of the reports that powerful capitalists had professed a willingness to advance the capital necessary to insure the success of an underground road, provided they received suitable concessions from the city authorities. The identity of the capitalists has not yet been divulged, but the general impression is that Austin Corbin is behind the scheme. The Austin Corbin is behind the scheme. The fact that London was a seller of stocks had a depressing effect, as it induced the traders to raid the leading shares. They made a series of attacks, finally concentrating their energies on Missouri Pacific, which scored the greatest loss—17-8 to 491-8. These, identified with the Cammack interests, were the heaviest scilers. The fear that the railroad employes out west would take a more determined stand than ever on account of the attitude of the courts towards the strikers accelerated the downward movement. The talk of large exports of gold also operated against values. New England, Sugar, Chicago Gas, Lackawanna, Lake Shore, Omaha and Erie yielded as much as 11-2 per cent during the afternoon. Manhattan raillied to 163 3-4 and 163. Rubber rose from 55 1-2 to 59 on Boston buying. The remainder of the list railied 14 to 3-4 per ceut, according to the statements made by Tepresentatives of the leading houses, the built of the selling during the day made by "representatives of the leading houses, the bulk of the selling during the day was for the short account and but little long stock was shaken out.

NEW YORK, April 4—The Post says: There was very little change today in the stock market's character. A combination of traders of considerable resources is at the moment undertaking to put the market higher. An expert and aggressive band of bear traders is harmasing these speculative holders of stocks, and trying to force liquidation. The large commission houses are doing nothing whatever. The bear operators today were deededly the more successful, and this perhaps partly because of the inconsistency and distrust which hampers all extensive preparations for a rise, Many of yesterday's smaller buyers were sellers today, and whenever their eagerness to sell was apparent the ground was quietly knocked from under their feet.

J. S. Hache & Co.'s Stock Letter.

By Private Wiro to B. W. Martin. Manager.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The London market was a little disturbed on account of the Adstralian bank failure, and the selling amounted to about 5,000 shares. Local bears tried their utmost to work up a sentiment against the market on account of this, but no long stock came out. The bears, nevertheless, made a slight impression on prices, but the short interest today has been somewhat increased. The sterling exchange market is strong and the story is going the rounds that between two or three million in gold will go out on Saturday's steamer. This is no doubt greatly exaggerated and bankers tell us that if any gold does go Saturday it will probably not be more than one million. Frequent raids were made on the market. New England was attacked several times, but the buying on the decline was of an excellent character. In Distillers' Cattle Feeding the fluctuations were very small, and in fact the whole market was very uninteresting but quite satisfactory to the buils. The money market was easier, showing that the April settlements had gone through all right. J. S. Rache & Co.'s Stock Letter.

below the closing quotations of last evening, and state that an extremely weak market is not expected there tomorrow, although spinners are not expected to buy largely. At the opening of our market this morning a rather better tone was evident, and prices quickly advanced 720 points, but on this advance selling orders were again received from the south; and, the receipts being heavy, prices gradually gave way until towards I o'clock the market sold below last evening's quotations. The trade here is astonished at the extent of decline, and have been free buyers of the distressed cotton that has come upon the market, but without any effect. Exporters report the pressure to sell in the south is remarkable in view of the reports that they have been receiving that but a small supply of cotton yet remains in the country. No rain has fallen throughout the cotton belt since yesterday, and it is beginning to be needed, but all influences of a favorable character are lost sight of under the pressure to dispose of the remaining stocks of cotton throughout the south. To equal our decline since the close of Liverpool on Thursday that market should open at least 10-84 dlower than the closing quotations sent us, but such a decline can scarcely be looked for unless indeed there are some large lines of long cotton to be liquidated by the exhaustion of margins. The market has rallied sharply from the lowest point touched, but as yet there appears to be no buying power to absorb the cotton which is being offered and sold by the south in larger quantities from the depression at 1 o'clock, and sold to 8.39 for August on the covering of an operator who sold very freely at the lowest prices of the day. The strength of from the depression at 1 o'clock, and sold to 8.39 for August on the covering of an operator who sold very freely at the lowest prices of the day. The strength of the market was more in the distant positions, in which at the moment there are few sellers. Traders here expect a continued liquidation of cotton, and feel that any bad crop reports would affect the distant more than the inside positions. Just at the close of the market a portion of the advance was lost, although the close was standy at 3 points above last avantage of the sellers was standy at 3 points above last avantage. market a portion of the advance was lost, aithough the close was steady at 3 points above last evening's quotations. The market was without any special vigor, and the trade looks with anxiety on the report to be expected from Liverpool in the morning. The movement at the interior towns shows an increase over last week, especially at Houston. Stocks at the interior towns so far this week lose 7,000. Although the trade expects a sharp reaction from this decline, the movement of the more decaded when the stocks. expects a snarp reaction from this decline, the move-ment of the market now depends upon the action of the prominent speculators who are heavily long of cot-ton in Liverpool at prices considerably above these quotations. If this interest is liquidated it will cause a sharp break in Liverpool, which the spinners will not be anxious to prevent.

NEW YORK, April 4—The market opened quiet and steady at about unchanged prices. Soon after the opening prices improved on the attempt of a local bear to cover, weakened during the day when some selling orders came in, but closed with a firm undertone and a better feeling. It looks as though weak holders had liquidated and cotton gone into stronger. holders had liquidated and cotton gone into stronge hands, and unless Liverpool sends us some discourag-ing news tomorrow and respond fully to our decline, we think prices will improve, and look for a good rally. By Telegraph. ## THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, April - There was no session of the board of trade today, but there was an agitated crowd of speculators on the curb, and the price of wheat was speculators on the curb, and the price of wheat was ron l@ll-q higher than it closed Monday. The main cause of the advance was the publication of the Illinois state crop report and the fear that reports of similar bad conditions would come in from Kansas, Missouri, Indiana and Michigan. New York wired here that foreigners had buying orders for wheat at that market, and Minneapolis reported foreign buying orders there and no wheat for sale. ed for Next Tuesday Night to Rat-ify the Action of the Directors.

The present large and handsome building of the Young Men's Library Association will, in a few days, be placed upon the narket.

That was decided at a meeting of the oard of directors yesterday afternoon.

The property is centrally located and is ne of the most valuable pieces of ground n the city. It has a wide frontage on catur street, and is worth in the close ighborhood of $100,000 or $125,000. It has been the property of the associa-tion for the past ten years and the elegant milding which occupies the site has been the home of the association for that length

The object of the sale is to dispose of the property in order to utilize the other lot on Marietta street, just opposite the First Presbyterian church. This lot is large and ample and is occupied by a large back dealing thick dealing thick the street of the street o brick dwelling which, with a few altera-tions can be converted into a building suittions can be converted into a building suitable for the purposes of the association.

The growth of the library during the past few years has been such that the matter of a permanent location, as nearly as possible in the central portion of the city, has been under advisement on the part of the directors and special committees, to whom the question was referred, for several weeks. eral weeks.

It has now been settled as far as the board is concerned and as soon as the approval of the membership is obtained, the negotiations for the sale will com-

A Meeting Called for Next Tuesday.

Accordingly a meeting of all the members of the association has been called for next Tuesday night.

The meeting will be held in the hall of the building and every member of the association will he notified to be on hand. The matter will then be fully discussed and all of the preliminary impediments in the way will be removed.

This meeting is called for next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Mr. F. H. Richardson, the president of the association, will preside and the matter will be clearly brought to the aftention of tach of the members.

As soon as the action of the board of directors is ratified the property will be placed in the hands of a special committee for the purpose of making the sale. The sale will either be in private or at public outery, as the committee to whom it will be referred may determine best.

The library was never in a more flourishing condition than it is at present. A handsome sum of money was voted at the last meeting for the purchase of new books and the latest editions of the standard authors, not already in the library, will be purchased without delay.

Subscriptions of membership have been coming in very rapidly and the popularity of the library is greater today than it ever was before in its history. When the association gets into its new home it will be one of the most thorough literary institutions in the south.

WILL BUILD A MONUMENT.

The Confederate Veterans of DeKalb County Addressed by Judge Rogers. Yesterday morning the confederate veterans of DeKalb county held a very interesting meeting at Decatur.

The object of the meeting was to organize for the purpose of erecting a monument to the confederate dead of that county. to the confederate dead of that to Judge Robert L. Rogers, an old veteran himself, had been invited to address the meeting, and made a good speech, arousing much enthusiasm. He referred to the monuments of both the old times and of recent erection and explained the meaning of a monument. He was eloquent in his descriptions of the brave deeds of some of the soldiers who lie sleeping their last sleep, and declared that a monument to these dead heroes should be erected at whatever cost.

these dead heroes should be erected as whatever cost.

Judge Hal Jones was made chairman of the meeting and W. J. Whidby was elected secretary. The committees to secure subscriptions were appointed and will go to work at once, and get up the money from those who desire to help such a worthy cause.

Judge Rogers was returned a vote of thanks for his speech.

The old store building of John Silvey & Co. is being rapidly torn away to make room for a fine structure which will tower above the Gould building a story and a balf.

The first work on the destruction of the old building was begun yesterday morning, and when the work of destruction is finished one of the landmarks of the city will have been removed. The old Silvey building is one of the oldest brick structures ever erected in Atlanta and for a long time was one of the largest.

The first wholesale dry goods store of the town was in it and a fortune has been made by the firm whose headquarters the old brick store has been.

The new building will be a beauty and in finish and convenience will rival any of its kind in the south. At present the firm of Silvey & Co. is located on Peachtree street.

THE CHARITABLE ASSOCIATION.

THE CHARITABLE ASSOCIATION.

It has taken up its Permanent Headquarters on Hunter Street.

The Atlanta Charitable Association has taken up permanent quarters at 45 East Hunter street, the office of that association having been transferred from 16 East Hunter to the former locality yesterday.

When the association was first organized a temporary office room was secured at 16 East Hunter, but the space there was entirely too much for the association's demands and the rent was consequently more than the association felt justified in paying.

The permanent quarters give the association a neat office, centrally located, accessible and well appointed. It immediately joins the courthouse annex and the work of relieving suffering humanity will be conducted in the shadow of the temple of justice. If the association can gather fresh anspiration from such contact it will serve simply to carry out the underlying principle upon which it has operated—giving in strict justice to the deserving poor according to their needs.

The office of the association is not yet perfectly arranged, but in its permanent quarters it is transacting its routine work. The members of the association and the public generally are invited to call at the office 45 East Hunter street whenever inclination prompts or business urges them in that direction.

VALUABLE PIECE OF PROPERTY. AN INCIDENT OF JAY GOULD'S LIFE,

Which Shows That He Did Not Believe in the Trumpeting of His Charity, but Worked Silently.

An interesting incident in the life of the late Jay Gould was told yesterday. The little wizard was under unfavor-able discussion when Mr. Goodrich interrupted with a relation which silenced all. "During the construction of the Texas Pacific railway," said Mr. Goodrich, "Mr. Jay Gould and Mr. Sidney Dillon were on a tour of inspection. Their train was sidetracked in a certain town, with the regular passenger waiting for a wild freight regular passenger waiting for a wild freight to come in. The passengers were told by the conductor that at least two hours would elapse before they would run again, and that we could go up town and see the sights of a prairie town in the staked plains. "Mr. Gould and Mr. Dillon, with their attendants, also took in the town. Clang! claug! rang out the mournful dirge of an auctioneer's bell. 'What am I offered?' 'Fifteen hundred,

$1,500. "Mr. Gould stepped up to a bystander and asked what the sale was for. The and asked what the sale was for. The tall Texan, in his Mexican sombrere in silver and gilt, his buckskin suit, and long mustache and imperial the toy of the hot blast, the glint and shine of his Colts 44 sparkling in the sun, the handles of his daggers above his boot tops, made a picturescope figure that only a Texan ranger uresque figure that only a Texan ranger can be in his native Pan Handle, as he ranges down by the Rio Grande.

"Pard, this be an knock-out for the parson,' said the ranger to Mr. Gould, Mr. Dillon an intent listener the meanwhile to the conversation.

Dillon an intent-listener the meanwhile to the conversation.

"In what way, pard,' said Mr. Gould to the ranger using the familiar expression of the plains.

"Pard, yer see, the parson built that church, the tin petered out. The contractor is selling the whole crowd out for his coin. Pard, I'll chip in and help the parson with the bank I busted last night.'

Here he pulled four from every neckt gold.

tor is selling the whole crowd out for his coin. Pard, I'll chip in and help the parson with the bank I busted last night.' Here he pulled out from every pocket gold and silver coin until his hat was full of the yellow and white metal.

"Mr. Gould, not even looking into the hat at its contents, so intent was he in a train of thought that was occupying his own mind the meanwhile, stepped up to the auctioneer and asked for the contractor, who was closing out his lien. The auctioneer pointed out the man. Mr. Gould approached the man and asked him the amount of his claim.

"$1.700 and costs.

"What will you take in settlement?' asked Mr. Gould.

"I will settle for $1,500 and donate the balance,' said the contractor, which will make my bills whole and I will lose my time and profit to help the church.'

"Mr. Gould told the man to stop the sale. Taking from his pocket several bills of large denominations, he gave them to the contractor and took his receipt in full. A staid old steward of the church was an attentive listener. and going up to Mr. Gould he said: 'Stranger, what are you going to do with the claim?' Mr. Gould looked the man over in his calm way, saying: 'What do you wish to know for?' I am the steward of this church being sold. All of the members of the church except myself are in church with the pastor on their knees praying God to come to our help and save our Sabbath home.'

"Mr. Gould said nothing, but taking the receipted bill and canceled lien that he held in his hand, he gave them to the steward and turned on his heel and walked to his train. The steward entered the church now free and told the people there on bended knee what the Lord had done. Immediately a shout of jou and gladness went up spontaneously from that congregation, the pastor giving God the praise, the congregation giving loud amens, the Doxology being fervently sung.

"The congregation quickly gathered in the street endeavorthy to find the stranger, who was such a good Samaritan. They soon found out that the litle man was none other as his train sped far out upon the prairie.

"Mr. Gould has said that the letter he received from that congregation, signed by every one, gave him more pleasure than when he made a million."

Are Getting Along Well.

Captain R. F. Wright and Dr. O'Daniel have returned from a visit to all the penitentiary camps. They say that the convicts are in better health and better cared for than they ever saw them.

Less trouble has been experienced with the convicts this winter than for a long time. During the holidays some things went wrong in the department, but all that has been straightened out.

The increase in the number of convicts which was alarming last fall has ceased The guards have plenty to do carrying sentenced men to the camps, but they are not rushed as they were five months back. And the character of the cases is not so bad as it was then.

loations for a Fine Fruit Crop This Year - Truck Gardens Slightly Impared by Late Frosts.

The first weather crop report of the year is issued this morning by the weather bu-

Crop reports from all but four counties Clayton, McIntosh, Pickens and Twiggsare incorporated in the report, which is a valuable guide to every sensible farmer in the state.

This is only the second year of the crop report idea, and the thorough arrangement of every detail speaks volumes for Mr.

Park Morrill, and his efficient crops of assistants. Last year an effort was made before the legislature to get the state to take a part—to lend a helping hand—as the department found it difficult to secure appropriations from congress to get the neces-sary printing done. The legislature paid but little attention to the effort of Mr. Morrill, as it doubtless failed to realize the great good such a report does. In many states, however, this lethargy does not exist, and appropriations are made to assist the weather bureau especially where its work chimes in so closely with the people of

The are four hundred and fifty crop reports in the consolidated report, and throughout the entire state a splendid showing is made, and especially is one deplora-

The cotton acreage, instead of decreasing, has increased and the actual increase is per cent. The southern papers, and the northern ones too, for that matter, have attempted to show for the last two years where such an existing state of affairs would be harmful, and the danger signal was hung out. The farmer was told also not to take it for granted that every other man was going to cut down his cotton crop by half, and thus by planting more cotton than usual he would make a pile of money But it appears that each man was determined to take advantage of the cutting down in acreage of cotton and the result is that a larger crop than ever before is an-

The cold kept the fruit trees from blooming so early and the indications are that this will be a most prosperous year for fruit growers and that there will be fruit in abundance. The truck farms were slightly damaged by the late frosts, but to no appreciable extent. All in all everything is urishing and the outlook, except for those who planted cotton, is most encouraging. Mr. Morrill's Report.

With the opening of the growing season in the northerly section of the state the weekly issue of the weather-crop bulletin of the Georgia weather service is resumed. We commence under the most encouraging conditions. Each of the one hundred and thirty-seven counties of the state is represented by a no or more correspondents with sented by one or more correspondents with the exception of only four-Clayton, Mc-Intosh, Pickens and Twiggs. Already four hundred and fifty able gentlemen have four hundred and fifty able gentlemen have signified their desire to co-operate in this service, so that I think we may feel sure of redeeming our promise to make the Georgia crop service second to none in the country. If we had the recognition of the legislature and the aid of the state in the way of better facilities for printing and distributing reports as is contemplated in a bill which awaits consideration at the next session of the general assembly, I think we could have a weather and crop service in Georgia as good as the best. A large number of states have already taken action and it is beyond question that the advantages of such service are greater in the south than in most sections.

At this time it may be well to make a brief explanation of the method used in the brief explanation of the method used in the brief explanation of these reports.

collection and compilation of these reports. Public spirited persons, who appreciate the advantage to farmers and to all honest business men of reliable information upon the condition of crops, have volunteered to furnish to this office a weekly report. As noted above, four hundred and fifty such gentlemen have already signified their willingness to perform this duty. For more ready digestion of the great mass of information thus received, the state is divided into nine geographical districts after the plan used by the postolice department. As a rule crop conditions will be considered with reference to these sections. Often from that made by any individual reporter. This divergence will be readily understood by the latter upon remembering that the report is the average of some fifty reports. Sometimes even in county reports there will be similar divergence, especially in the case of very large counties, some of which contain eight or ten reporters.

The unusual cold since the beginning of the year, while having the effect of rendering the opening of the season a few days later than usual is not without compensation. By holding back the buds of fruit trees until the sudden coming of really warm weather gives good assurance of the secape of serious damage by frost, a better prospet of a good yield of peaches, pears, apples and minor fruits was never had at his season. Other crops also, while planted a little later than usual, will very likely attain a sturdier growth and more perfect development by reason of the favorable conditions under which they will germinate. The chief injury done by the cold seems to have been to the earlier sowing of eats and to early vegetables and garden crops. Special inquiry was instituted for this report into the increase in the acreage of corn of which much has been said in the public press of late. It will, of course, be understood that in the northern sections of the deplorable fact that a considerable increase is certain may lead some to wisely reconsider the matter before enteri

Franklin—Corn is about half planted; no cotton as yet. The fruit crop was injured by cold during March. Owing to the price of cotton seed every bushel that could be spared was sold and guano will be used in its place.

Coweta—We had a good rain on the 29th and the remainder of the week has been excellent for farm work. Farmers are a little behind. Upland corn is about all planted and some coming up. Cotton planting commenced today. Small grain has a good staud and looks well.

Corn planting is about completed and cotton planting begun. There is a fair prospect for fruit. Clay—Farming operations are well advanced; corn generally planted and much of it up. Small grain is looking well. Farmers are turning their attention to food crops and stock raising. Acreage of cotton is increased 5 per cent over last year. Planting has begun. Brooks—While the acreage of cotton will be considerably increased, there is a greater interest in food crops. There is a large acreage of oats, rice and melons. Crops are in good growing condition. Cotton planting is in progress.

Chatham—The latter part of the week has been beautiful growing weather. A small amount of cotton is being planted; food crops are increased 20 per cent. Irish potatoes are up six or eight inches and doing well; beans up; peas nearly ready to ship. The cabbage crop is not up to the general average.

Hood's Sarsaparilla positively cures even

Hood's Sarsaparilla positively cures even when all others fall. It has a record of suc-cosses unequaled by any other medicine. A PRETTY EASTER SERVICE.

Was That at the First Methodist Church.

One of the most beautiful Easter services that occurred on the Sabbath was observed by the Sabbath school of the First Methodist church. To Mrs. James Jackson and her faithful co-workers, Mrs. Fannie Kimball and Mrs. Henry Leonard, is due all the praise for the great pleasure given an immense audience that assembled to witness the performance. The conception of the entertainment was exquisitely beautiful. It was the Easter bells. Seven little girls represented the bells—Love, Youth, Prayer, Memory, Hope, Faith and Praise. As they recited their verse they held a beautiful bell, formed by white flowers with the name of the bell represented, in colored flowers around the rim, and from each clapper was suspended a ribbon in color to correspond with the flowers. So there were pansies, roses, crocus and other flowers. At the close of each recitation the bell was hung in position, asd when the seven bells were hung a beautiful song was rendered by the whole school—"Ring the Bells, the Glad Easter Bells"—and the bells were all rung by the children in perfect time to the music, until one could easily imagine they did hear them "echo o'er the land and the sea."

The most interesting features of the afternoon were the reitations and songs by the infant class of the school. Nothing could have been lovelier than these dear little ones as they lifted their voices in praise. Every child did their part beautifully, showing the faithful training through which they had passed, and only those who heard and saw them could appreciate how lovely was the scene. At the close of the services four or five beautifully dressed little tots, with baskets suspended from their necks by bright ribbons, went up with their mite offerings, and after telling in their quaint way what they had done, knelt and in a little prayer made their offerings to God, then arose and placed their baskets on a stand near by. In behalf of the school followed Master Lonnie Leonard, who in a graceful and easy manner, after a short speech, presented the Easter Offering for the school. It will not be amiss to by the Sabbath school of the First Methodist church. To Mrs. James Jackson and

In two weeks they have made $30, and that was their Easter offering. While looking at these lovely little ones and listening to their earnest words and beholding their pure faces I did not wonder that Christ chose a little child and placing it in the midst of his followers uttered those dom of heaven."

The infant class of the school was entertained by their devoted teacher, Mrs. Kimball, on Saturday afternoon at an Easter egg hunt. The infant classroom has seventy-five little chairs, and in each chair was a heaviful next containing three egg, some egg hunt. The infant classroom has seventy-five little chairs, and in each chair was a beautiful nest containing three eggs, some of them exquisitely hand-painted by Mrs. Kimball's faithful co-worker, Mrs. Mollie McWhorter. On a table reposed a large nest with about a dozen eggs from which peeped little chicks. These were for the babies of the class. On an edge of the nest was perched a faithful rooster, and it was explained to the children that the hen who had laid so many eggs had gone off to rest and left the rooster in charge. In the body of the lecture room three golden eggs were hid, and the children were to hunt for these; by the music of the piano, either soft or loud, they were to know when they were near success. It was great fun to watch them and a happy little band they were. When the hunt was over they were all invited to a room in the rear, where Miss Mattie Mae Kimball and Miss Ellen O'Connor and other ladies served them cake and ice cream. At dainty little tables and on benches around the room sat the little ones, and a prettier picture could not have been found the world over. So much joy and fun has been seldom seen and each child went home happy, and I donbt for many a little one as they knelt to say their evening prayer remembered the dear teacher who had given them so much pleasure and called down a benediction upon her head.

If you are nervous or dyspeptic try Carter's Little Newer Bills. Descenting trackets and care and care and called down a benediction upon her head.

I have found the Cuticura Remedies to be just what you recommend them. My wife was covered all over with pimples and tortured nearly to death with eczema, as the doctor called it. I have never found anything so good for a family that is troubled with Scrofula and Blood and Skin Diseases. I believe the Cuticura Remedies saved the lives of my wife and two children. I lost two children with Eczema and Scrofula before I tried these remedies, and the two living had as bad cases of Eczema and Scrofula before I tried these remedies, and the two living had as bad cases of Eczema and Scrofula before I tried these remedies, and the two living had as bad cases of Eczema and Scrofula before I tried these remedies, and the two living had as bad cases of Eczema and Scrofula before I tried these remedies, and the two living had as bad cases of Eczema and Scrofula before I tried these remedies, and Scrofula before I tried these words are every one true. I can refer you to my neighbors. I have saved one hundred dollars in doctors' bills, and our lives, by using them. Before Judge Boynton. Monroe superior Court.

1. As the statute (code 3728) prescribes the condition of all forthcoming bonds which the levying officer is authorized and required to take in claim cases, the officer has no power to take a forthcoming bond with a different condition, or to qualify, or vary the prescribed condition by any agreement whatever made with the claimant or with the surety by whom the statutory bond is executed. Any such agreement is simply void and without effect as against an action upon the bond brought after the termination of the claim case by the plaintiff in execution, or by the officer for his use.

2. The sheriff having levied on personal property which was claimed by another who replevied the same by giving a bond with security conditioned, as required by section 3728 of the code, to deliver the property at the time and place of sale," in case the same should be found subject to the fi. fa. levied, and there having been a failure to deliver the property at the courthouse door, after the same had been found subject and duly advertised for sale by the sheriff, it was no defense to an action upon this bond, brought by the sheriff for use of the plaintiff in fi. fa. against the claimant and the surety, for breach thereof, that he had induced the defendants to sign the bond by promising them he would not require the property, which was heavy and expensive to transport, to be brought to the courthouse had induced the defendants to sign the bond by promising them he would not require the property, which was heavy and expensive to transport, to be brought to the courthouse door, but would sell it, where it was; or that he repeated this promise after the bond had been executed. The courthouse door was the only place where the sale could be legally made, whether, the sheriff brought and exhibited the property there or not, and consequently the terms of the bond as to time and place of delivery were not-ambiguous and could not be varied by parol evidence tending to show that the defendants had agreed to deliver at some other place. The provisions of section 3646 of the code, relieving levying officers in certain instances from removing heavy property to the courthouse door, were made for the benefit of the officers and the parties to processes levied by them and not for the benefit of other persons who may voluntarily contract in writing by a statutory bond to deliver such property at the courthouse door.

Ludgment reversed perty at the courthouse door.

Georgia Railroad and Banking Company v. McComb. Railroad. Negligence. Before Judge Jenkins. Baldwin superior court. The evidence being undisputed that the mule was killed by the running of the defendant's locomotive, and the presumption of law being that there was negligence, and there being conflict in the evidence as to whether the observance of due diligence would have been effectual in preventing the injury, and nonsequently, whether such diligence was in fact observed, the verdict was not so palpably unwarranted as to justify the supreme court in setting it aside over the approval of the presiding judge in the court below.

A declaration which alleges that under duress of threats of vexatious arrests and prosecution, petitioner entered into an agreement with the defendant (a municipal corporation), and executed the same, to deposit with the clerk of council the sum of $500, with right to reclaim the same by suit and that the clerk should hold the same as a deposit only and not as payment of license tax, subject to the determination of the courts, is not supported as to the terms of the alleged contract by a written agreement executed by the parties respectively, and after certain recitals stipulated, substantially as follows: That an issue be joined and submitted to the superior court judge, with right to appeal to the supreme court, which may be so submitted by application for mandamus, provided the court holds that mandamus will lie in such case, requiring the mayor and aldermen to issue license for the unexpired year from former payment in consideration therefor, or alternatively to the sum of $116,66 as overcharge on former license and that the sum of $500 deposited by the retailer (plaintiff) today with the clerk of council be held as payment for license today is sued, if the court shall hold against the application for mandamus; and that if mandamus be sustained, then only $333.33 sued, if the court shall hold against the application for mandamus; and that if mandamus be sustained, then only $33.33 be held as payment for license, and the balance of the $500 deposited be refunded to the retailer, it being the true intent and meaning of this agreement that said sum of $500 is payment for only the sum which shall be adjudged due for said license to February 1, 1892. A judgment rendered by a justice of the

1. Even if a defect in a platform from which a railroad company is loading a horse upon a car would, under any circumstances, excuse the company for injuring the horse by reason of such defect, it certainly would not do so in the absence of full diligence to discover the defect before exposing the horse to the risk of injury.

East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway Company v. Hughes. Railroad. Negligence. Infaney. Before Judge Roberts. Dodge superior court.
Under the declaration and the evidence this case should have turned, as to the question of the defendant's liability, upon whether the conductor ordered the plaintiff's daughter to jump from the train while in motion, and if so, whether the daughter was free from plain and manifest fault in obeying the order. If the order was not given, or if it should have been disobeyed on account of the obvious danger of complying with it, there could be no recovery otherwise there could be a recovery measured by the loss of services reduced to their present net value, from the time of the injury up to the time when the daughter would attain her majority, to which should be added any expense to the plaintiff occasioned by the injury. As the daughter was about seventeen years of age she should not be treated with respect to her duty to care for her own safety as a child of tender years, but should be treated as a person who is presumptively chargeable with the exercise of the ordinary discretion possessed by young persons of her class and condition. Let the case be tried over substantially upon the views above indicated.

5 LARGE BOULEVARD LOTS

Two Large Ponce de Leon Lots AT AUCTION,

Thursday, April 6, 1893,

Thursday, April 6, 1893,

3 O'CLOCK P. M., ON THE PREMISES.
These lots, for position and situation, are not excelled on any of the thoroughfares of Atlanta. Ponce de Leon Circle is fast becoming the Fifth avenue of Atlanta. All conveniences, paved streets, water and sewer being put down, three electric car lines at your door. The Boulevard is already second to no street in Atlanta. The Boulevard lots lay just outside the city limits, but have paved streets and electrac car lines, assuring you the last car at night and first in the morning as they go to and from the plant, with neighbors such as C. R. Haskins, T. P. Averill, James Millighan, C. R. Snider, Colonel Roberts, et al.

The property is sold because the owner has immediate need for money and has authorized us to sell these seven lots without reserve. Now, why pay rend when you can get such lots at your prices. First-class building lots on the fashionable streets of north Atlanta are getting scarce, and as the city grows will get more so, and Atlanta with her present system of railroads and the several others that are knocking for admittance, is the greatest railroad center in the south, and like a ball of snow, as she roils she grows.

Take a plat, ride out and get the fresh air as it sweeps over this property from the mountains in view, hear the music of the singing birds, make your selection, and be on hand at the sale.

Terms, one-fourth cash, balance 6, 12 and 18 months, with 8 per cent interest.

For the last few years kidney disease has been rapidly on the increase.

Insidious in its approach—alarming in its consequences—this terrible scourge has cut down some of the brightest intellects of the age. Many suffer from kidney trouble long before they are aware of the true character of their complaint.

In disease any neglect or delay is dangerous. This is peculiarly true of all kidney affections. As soon as the first symptoms appear, treatment should commence.

Dull pain in the back, weakness over the joins or tenderness upon pressure, scanty or reddish urine, cloudy after standing, brick dust deposit, albumen or uric acid reaction, smarting or burning pains in passing water, etc., are danger signals, and should be promptly heeded.

A Change in Policy Has Been Determined Upon.

THE HAND IS NOW TO BE EDUCATED.

There Is a Surplus of Negro Teachers and Preachers, and Now Artisans Are in Demand.

The board of directors of the Commercial Club, and the board of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, met yesterday at lunch in the spacious dining hall of the Commer cial Club at 1 o'clock.

The meeting was purely informal and almost the full membership of both boards was present.

The object of the gathering was that the nembership of both boards might be thrown in social contact and discuss in a general way any work of development in which either of these two well-known business institutions might be of assistance.

During the course of the lunch ex-Governor Bullock, who is president of the Chamber of Commerce, and who sat at one head of the table, while President Oglesby, of the Commercial Club, sat at the other, brought out in casual conversation an interesting story concerning a proposed per venture of the trustees of the Slater fund.

This fund amounts to $1,000,009, the interest of which is devoted to the education of the negro, and it has nearly all been expended in the literary improve-ment of the negro, teaching him Latin and Greek along with the lower branches, and generally ignoring the important phase of industrial education, of which the negro stands most in need,

It seems that the trustees of the Slater fund have decided to divert the use of the fund have decided to divert the use of the annual interest from the fund, from the literary to the industrial education of the negro. Hon, J. L. M. Curry, chairman of the board of trustees of the fund, has been in communication with ex-Governor Pulcok on the subject, asking his opinion as to the advisability of the change, and also asking him what in his opinion was the sentiment of the leading people of the south concerning this.

Governor Bullock thinks that the trustees will locate an industrial school at some point in the south, at which the negroes will be fitted by systematic training the art of scientific farming.

The letter read by ex-Governor Bullock was listened to with considerable interest by the members of the two boards, and it

The letter read by ex-Governor Bellock was listened to with considerable interest by the members of the two boards, and it was unanimously agreed that the proposed change was wise and would not only be of great service to the negro, but more especially to the people of the south.

A resolution heartily endorsing the preposal of the location of a manual training school for the colored people in, or near, Atlanta, and pledging the hearty support of the two boards in establishing the same upon the plan suggested by co-Governor Bullock, was unanimously adopted.

Ex-Governor Bullock was seen by a representative of The Constitution after the lunch, and he said in reply to the question: "What about the proposed trade school for the colored people?"

"For a number of years past the fact has impressed itself upon the trustees of the Slater fund, the interest of which is devoted to aiding in educational work among the colored people in the south, that the higher or classical education of the race had been pushed beyond the needs of the present generation, and that colored students, graduating in the classics, had no opportunity for the use of their educational advantages toward their cwn support, except as preachers or teachers, and those lines of usefulness had become overstocked by the surplus of graduates. Hence it is that these trustees have been casting about for such a use of the fund at their disposal as would fit the recipients of their bounty for usefulness to themselves and to the community in which they might live by providing them with opportunities for a technical education as mechanics, artisans and farmers, having knowledge of the chemical properties of the soil and its needs of stimulation for the production of crops suited to our section. In carrying out this laudable purpose these trustees, under the lead of Hon, J. L. M. Curry, ex-minister to Spain under Mr. Cleveland's former administration, now chairman of the educational committee of that trust, have been seeking for a proper point for the establish seeking for a proper point for the establishment of a trades school that would be conveniently accessible to the largest number of the class for whom this kind of education was intended. I have earnestly urged upon those trustees, at such opportunities as I have had, that Atlanta was the central point for which they were seeking. It is, the purpose of these trustees to provide from the revenues of the Slater fund about ten thousand dollars per year for carrying on such a trades school at such a central point as may offer to them the necessary land and buildings to carry their purpose into effect.

"It seems to me that there can be but one opinion as to the desirableness of the people of Atlanta, if the opportunity is afforded them of taking such steps as may be necessary to secure the location here of that most desirable institution. The effect of education in this line here will be to provide our colored friends with such knowledge as will enable them by honest industry and intelligent application to carn good livelihoods for themselves and their families and at the same time benefit our community by having in our milst educated artisens who are familiar, with our ramines and at the same time belief our community by having in our milst educated artisans who are familiar with our wants and acceptible to our people, and who will thus be made self-supporting, and therefore a self-respecting element in our therefore a self-respecting element in our community.

"This matter will doubtless be presented later in a more formal way by Rev. Dr. Curry and his associate trustees, and at such time I have no doubt that action will be taken by our people to secure for us the great advantages thus placed within our reach."
